U.S. Forces Are Hammering At Munda Defense

Less Than Mile From New Georgia Base Is Report Today

MORE JAP SHIPS SUNK, DAMAGED

By LEE VAN ATTA
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

UNITED NATIONS HEADQUARTERS, In Australia, July 19.

American invasion forces hammered at the main perimeter of Japanese defenses less than a mile from the New Georgia air base at Munda today as Allied warplanes and naval vessels were revealed to have sunk or damaged nine more enemy vessels.

American warships, clashing in a night engagement with three enemy destroyers off the west coast of Kolombangara Island, scored hits on all three enemy warships and were believed to have sunk one, in a second action, light American surface units attacked six enemy destroyers in the same waters, routing the squadron, after scoring a torpedo hit on one.

Ships Attacked

American torpedo and divebombers, attacking "remnants" of enemy shipping in the Buin-Faisi area of the northern Solomons, sank a Japanese cargo ship and damaged two destroyers and a second merchantman, Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters announced. The ninth Japanese vessel was bombed and sunk off Cape Orford, New Britain, by Allied medium bombers.

On New Georgia Island, Yank jungle fighters closing in for the final battle for possession of the Munda base were effectively supported by torpedo and divebombers which blasted enemy positions at Lambeti and the airfield with 44 tons of high explosives.

In New Guinea, meanwhile, sharp new patrol clashes broke out in the Salamaua sector. Australian and Japanese forces traded blows in the jungle near Mount Tambu and Orudubi while combined American and Australian troops nudged toward the big headquarters base at Salamaua.

PA NEW OBSERVES

Gas rationing must be loosening up somewhere. Pa New saw two cars, one from Florida and one from Indiana, parked near each other downtown on Sunday.

Many New Castle folks craned their necks and gazed skyward on Saturday evening as a plane streaked through the skies. It was going at terrific speed, probably faster than any plane has ever moved through this area, the speed causing the comment.

A tandem bicycle has made its appearance in the North Hill district, and riders appear to be enjoying the "bicycle built for two".

According to Sharon reports, Col. Dieudonne Coste, famous French flier recently reported in New York after escaping from a German prison camp, is the same aviator who was forced down on a round-the-world trip, near Sharpsville, 16 years ago.

Mrs. R. J. Stewart of 1022 Glenn avenue, reported to Pa New this morning that her dog, "Bud," died Friday, July 17, at the age of 17. (Continued On Page Two)

Says U. S. Should Seek Return For War Aid

By ELLIOITT HAYES
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Demand was made on Capitol Hill today that the United States go to the peace table prepared to insist upon territorial settlements in exchange for war aid.

It was accompanied by suggestions that this country also bargain for free access to natural resources everywhere to make up for war depletion of its own mineral, metal and oil deposits.

These statements followed expressions in the British Parliament, and frequently repeated elsewhere, that the United States cancel lend-lease debts of the United Nations.

"These references in Parliament to cancelling of the debt are part of a program initiated nearly a year ago looking to avoidance of balancing accounts," said Sen. Gerald P. Nye (R) N. D., a member of the foreign affairs committee.

"In view of the fact that we got little or nothing on debts from the last war, I do not think we should now cancel lend-lease and make outright gifts of our aid. We should get something for the billions we are paying out to aid others.

"Whether this will be in cash, trade advantages or concessions such as use of strategic islands, I am not prepared to say now. But we might consider as part payment airway or similar rights where the British empire is involved. We should be fair but we should not be writing off these obligations."

Tank Battle Is Now Raging In Catania Streets

British Eighth Army Comes To Grips With Nazis For Vital Port

YANKS CONTINUE TO MAKE ADVANCE

By PIERRE J. HUSS
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, In North Africa, July 19.—Steady advances

on all three Sicilian fronts were announced by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower today as a massive tank battle raged in the streets of Catania's suburbs.

Continuing to make progress in "the face of strong opposition," hardy veterans of the British Eighth Army came to grips with the bulk of Germany's 60,000 seasoned warriors in the final struggle for possession of the vital east coast port.

Canadian troops meanwhile "have fought their way north with skill and determination in difficult country," said Gen. Eisenhower's communique. "United States troops," it added, "made further advances to the north and northwest."

Catania Isolated
Catania already was isolated after 72 hours of constant shelling of the port and approaches from the north and south as a Second British column plunged inland toward the key rail highway junction of Palermo, ten miles northwest of Catania on the main route to the capital at Palermo.

The Sicilian land advances continued, meanwhile, with American troops seizing the town of Caltanissetta, 30 miles inland from Agrigento.

The Second column, striking into the rear of Catania's defenders in the same manner Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's New Zealand warriors outflanked the Mareh line in Tunisia, also threatened the huge nine-pronged network of airdromes (Continued On Page Two)

'BIG INCH' LINE IS COMPLETED

World's Largest Pipeline Is Finished Near Phoenixville Today

(International News Service)

PHOENIXVILLE, Pa., July 19.—Laid in less than a year at a cost of $95,000,000, the final joint of the "big inch"—the world's largest pipeline—will be welded today at Eagle, near Phoenixville, in the presence of Secretary of the Interior Harold L. Ickes and Commerce Secretary Jesse Jones.

Within three weeks the fabulous pipeline, which courses 1340 miles across the country, will be pumping fuel oil into the gas-hungry East from Longview, Tex. Eventually, the line will deliver more than 300,000 barrels of oil daily.

Between its origin in Texas and its eastern terminus at Linden, N. J., the "big inch" dives under 13 rivers, crosses eight mountain ridges, skirts farmlands and cities and tunnels under the world's greatest network of railroads and highways.

At Phoenixville the "big inch" divides with one branch running to Linden and the other into the refineries of the Philadelphia metropolitan area.

Russians Make New Offensives; Gain Near Orel

Advances Threaten To Sever Main Supply Route To Orel

NAZI LOSSES HEAVY MOSCOW REPORTS

By NATALIA RENE

MOSCOW, July 19.—Marshal Semyon Timoshenko's Red army tank and infantry forces threatened to sever the main German supply route to Orel today after scoring gains up to four miles in their triple-pronged drive on the big enemy-held base 200 miles south of Moscow.

The Soviets were reported to be within ten miles of the vital Bryansk-Orel railroad, along which supplies and reinforcements for German armies on the Orel front must travel, and within 15 miles of Orel itself.

Over 35,000 Now Taken In Sicily

Capture Of Prisoners Increases As Advance Of Allies Continues

AMERICANS HOLD 23,000 OF PRISONERS

By CLINTON GREEN
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, July 19.—With the Rome raid striking a mortal blow into the heart of Italy, the Allied offensive in Sicily lengthened into new strides forward today under the relentless pounding of the British and American armies.

Punching hard, the American troops "threw" closer toward the heart of the island in renewed advances northward, while piling up additional miles along the west coast and slashing Axis forces defending that area.

Inland the Yankees seized the important town of Caltanissetta, some miles from Agrigento and about 30 miles from Enna.

British troops meantime fought their way within three miles of Catania, while the Canadians on the British left wing furthered the Allied cause by the capture of Piazza Amerina, between Caltanissetta and Caltanissetta on the road of Enna, advancing over rough terrain.

An official announcement disclosed that Axis prisoners taken in Sicily now number 35,000, of which 23,000 were captured by Americans and 12,000 by the British.

Mayor Goes To Seattle; Returns

Mayor Charles B. Mayne, who has been on vacation since July 4, is home, having arrived Saturday, held court Sunday and presided in council meeting in City Hall today. He went West as far as Seattle. ALLIES PLUNGE AHEAD ON MAJOR FRONTS AROUND WORLD

IMPORTANT ALLIED ADVANCES on three major battlefronts around the world have been scored in the latest heavy fighting. These maps show how the Russians, Americans, British, Canadians and Australians are waging successful offensives. In Russia, the Nazi summer offensive has been stalled and the Red Army has swept forward on the Orel front. In Sicily, the Allies are continuing their advances and, in New Guinea, Mubo, key defense point of the Jap base at Salamaua, has fallen to the Allies. (International)

Gas Rationing Changes Seen

Nation East Of Rockies May All Come Under Same Regulations

LITTLE MORE FOR EAST POSSIBLE

By WILLIAM E. ZIMMERMAN
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, July 19.—The nation east of the Rockies today appeared headed for reduced gasoline allotments despite assured improvement in transportation facilities.

Just as the gas-short eastern states were given hope for more fuel, the petroleum industry war council reported that there is now an overall shortage of gasoline.

Conflicting Opinions
Conflicting with Sen. James M. Mead (D) N. Y., who said that "the situation now looks brighter," the council said it is obvious that very soon gasoline "must be rationed because of a shortage of gasoline rather than a shortage of transportation."

The council endorsed the plan of Petroleum Administrator Ickes for rationing equalization for all areas east of the Rockies which would give the Atlantic seaboard more fuel but it appeared that further reduction of the entire area will now be necessary because of the shortages of gas itself.

PROCLAMATION

I, Albert A. Hoyland, acting mayor of the city of New Castle, do hereby proclaim the week of July 19 to July 24 as New Castle WAVE Week, and ask all those who are interested in serving their country to give it their entire support.

Whereas, the Women's Reserve of the United States Navy are greatly in need of increasing their present personnel.

This is total war—a war in which every woman as well as every man must play a part. The men in the navy are in for one reason alone—to fight! They're in to fly the planes, man the ships, smash the Nazis and Japs.

But to keep them fighting, there are important service jobs that must be carried on at home—man-size, full-time jobs which you, the women of America, can fill—in jobs in which you can serve your country in your own way and release the men to fight at sea.

ALBERT A. HOYLAND, Acting Mayor.

Yegg Injured In Robbery Attempt

Yegg who attempted to rob the safe Saturday night in the office of the New Castle Feed & Coal company, Moravia street, apparently got the worst of the attempt—a bad laceration, as blood was splattered all over the floor of the office. After entering the office, the yegg knocked off the safe knob with an axe. He did not get into the safe, according to police.

Leaflets Warn Italians In Raid

Say Fascists May Arrange To Have Bombs Dropped On Center Of Rome

ONLY MILITARY OBJECTS TARGET

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, July 19.—Leaflets dropped during today's raid on Rome warned that the Fascist government, in order to convince the Italian people of allied designs on cultural monuments, may "arrange for bombs to be dropped on the center of Rome and even on Vatican City."

The leaflets warned the Italian capital's residents to beware of a move by Mussolini's government to portray today's allied attack as an attempt "to destroy those cultural monuments which are the glory not only of Rome, but of the civilized world."

Quoted by the Algiers radio in a broadcast reported to the OWI, leaflet said: "We have declared, and we repeat, that we shall be aiming at military objectives."

Text of the statement:

To Citizens Of Rome
"You have already been warned that military objectives in the vicinity of Rome are liable to be bombed by the allied air forces. When this occurs the Fascist government, who have consistently concealed from you facts about the war will pretend we are trying to destroy the cultural monuments which are the glory not only of Rome but of the civilized world."

War Department Announces Rome Bombed By Allies

Military Objectives In Historic City Feel Blast Of Bombers

RAILROAD CENTER PRINCIPAL TARGET

By JOSEPH A. BORS
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, July 19.—For the first time in World War II, military objectives in historic Rome, capital of Italy, were bombed today by Allied heavy and medium bombers of the Mediterranean air command.

The dramatic announcement of the raid was made by the War Department at 5:27 a. m. EDT, presumably a short time after the event actually occurred.

The railroad center in Rome, known as the marshalling yard, was the principal target, the communique said.

"It is of the greatest importance to the Axis war effort and in particular for the movement of German troops," the announcement said.

"Warning leaflets also were dropped over the city before the raid. Pilots and bombardiers employed in this mission were particularly instructed to avoid damaging religious and cultural monuments," the War Department added.

Italian Ferry Is Heavily Bombed

Rail And Port Facilities At Reggio Di Calabria Are Hit

(International News Service)

CAIRO, July 19.—Huge Halifax and Liberator bombers of the Royal Air Force smashed at rail and port facilities at Reggio Di Calabria, Italian end of the ferry linking Italy with Sicily, in the wake of new attacks on Axis-held Greek targets, the middle east command announced today.

Bomb bursts, were observed among railroad sidings and munitions sheds at Reggio Di Calabria, and one large and several small fires were ignited by the big four-motored bombers, a communique said.

The raid was carried out Saturday night without loss after RAF Beau fighters roared over western Greece in an offensive sweep of Axis shipping and rail targets.

A train southeast of Pyrgos, on the southwest coast of Greece, was attacked by one formation of Beau fighters while others, ranging against shipping in the Ionian sea, scored hits on a two-master schooner at Kveleke. Jetties at the western Greek port also were strafed and bombed, the communique said.

Military Points In Rome Suffer Bomber Attack

Heavy Raid Made On Rome Military Objectives By Allied Forces

TO HALT ROME AID TO SICILY

By PIERRE J. HUSS
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, In North Africa, July 19.—Under strict orders to spare cathedrals, churches, monuments and "cultural establishments" of any kind, heavy Allied bombers attacked military objectives in the city of Rome today to halt dispatch of Axis reinforcements to the island of Sicily.

Coincident with the first onslaught against Premier Mussolini's capital, Allied planes dropped thousands of leaflets warning the population of Rome that the Fascist overlords themselves may bomb holy places and even Vatican city in an effort to discredit the legitimate aims of the attack.

These pamphlets and an official communique from the headquarters of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower emphasized that extreme care was taken to safeguard irreplaceable shrines and historic buildings.

But there was appended a warning that certain objectives nestle so close to the cultural structures of the eternal city that damage from vibration may be inevitable.

The attack on Rome came simultaneously with steady advances on the Sicilian battlefield and continued heavy fighting in the streets of Catania, whose fall was expected momentarily.

Follows Fascist Appeal

It followed an impassioned appeal by Ciriaco Scorza, secretary-general of the Fascist party, to the Italian people. Speaking in place of a strangely-silent Premier Mussolini, Scorza called upon Italy to "resist, resist, resist," warning that defeat or capitulation would transform the Italian people into "slaves of Anglo-Saxon Judaism."

All official advices released by Gen. Eisenhower's headquarters made clear the attack was a heavy one and was designed for the sole purpose of choking off the shipment of new troops and materials to embattled Sicily.

Never in the history of aerial warfare have pilots been "briefed" in such a manner as those assigned to the task of carrying the war home to the heart and soul of Italy.

They were told to avoid "cultural objectives" of any description and instructed to concentrate their bombs upon the vital network of railways operating out of Rome. Their orders were to keep damage to non-military objectives to an absolute minimum. Men, well acquainted with the layout of Rome were on hand to give detailed information. (Continued On Page Two)

President May Make Changes

Report Shifts In Administration Are On Schedule In Near Future

CONSERVATIVES TO GET MOST POWER

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, July 19.—President Roosevelt today is planning several drastic changes in his administration to solve national economic problems, while giving full power to three conservative southern Democrats to rule the home front.

Close friends say the President will reorganize the administration's food, gas-oil and possibly rubber agencies long before Congress returns from its summer recess in September. After these reorganizations, Mr. Roosevelt will turn over the home front to his "deputy president," former Senator James F. Byrnes of South Carolina, and the latter's two assistants, Judge Fred M. Vinson of Kentucky and Judge Marvin Jones of Texas.

Sidetrack Three
This means the present "Big Three"—Supreme Court Justice Felix Frankfurter, New York Judge Samuel I. Rosenman and Harry L. Hopkins—are to be sidetracked, so far as the public is concerned. They may even be dropped but certainly will be taken out of the "show window." Hopkins may even lose his White House residence by being sent abroad on an important political-diplomatic mission.

Thus, the President will head into the 1944 election year with three southern Democrats running the home show. While this move may silence reported southern opposition to a fourth term, its real purpose will be to solve vital domestic problems, silence bickering and confusion within his administration and prepare the home front for two more years of exhaustive warfare in which to crush Hitlerite Germany and Hirohito's Japan.

On top of his recent order to administration officials to "shut up or get out," the President will issue another ultimatum: "Play ball or get out." Even veteran members of his administration, who resent the approaching changes, will be told bluntly to resign in order to make way for new names and new faces.

The President is pictured by intimates as determined to "clean house" of every person in the government who appears to be interfering with his war program on the home front. One or two officials, suspected of an overwhelming lust for power, will be asked either to forego their ambitions or get out.

TANK BATTLE IS NOW RAGING IN CATANIA STREETS

at Gerbini, 15 miles west of Catania. (The Algiers radio said Allied warships were shelling Axis troop concentrations at the foot of Mt. Etna.)

(A dispatch to the London Daily Express, as yet unconfirmed, said British tanks were "fighting in the streets of Catania.")

Yanks Advance

American troops on the western front, spearheaded by hardy rangers and supported by a naval bombardment, overran Porto Empedocle, largest harbor on Sicily's south coast, after defeating the strategic island stronghold of Agrigento. Other Yank forces struck 20 miles north from the Gela sector to Barrafranca road junction within 17 miles south of Enna, communications and mobilization base on which movements of Axis defense forces are pivoted.

On the battle now raging for Catania, midway to the ferry terminal at Messina which links Sicily with Italy, depended the fate of all Sicily observers here declared, pointing out that occupation of Catania would preface seizure of the east coast and put Axis defenders in a trap similar to Tunisia's Cap Bon.

One Third Conquered

With one-third of the 10,000-square-mile island already in Allied hands, German troops were reported anticipating the imminent fall of Catania and to be massing at the foot of volcanic Mt. Etna, for a last-ditch stand 15 miles north of Catania.

As the invasion of the stepping-stone island to Italy roared into its tenth day, Axis troops were reported retreating "in droves," but a British drive on Catania was meeting terrific resistance. Up to Thursday night, 30,000 Axis prisoners had been taken, 22,000 of them by Lieut. Gen. George S. Patton's U. S. Seventh Army.

There are no indications on the part of Catania's defenders to give up, however. Front dispatches said the "bulk" of Germany's 60,000 troops on Sicily had been massed there to check the British advance, and had been well supplied with giant 60-ton "tiger" tanks and Mark IVs.

(A Reuter's correspondent with the Eighth Army said the Germans for the first time have used paratroopers, dropping them, behind British lines at Catania.)

"We have declared, and we repeat, that we shall be aiming at military objectives: communications, war industries, military installations, airports, all of which for the sole interest of the Germans. These objectives have been carefully chosen and our pilots have been specially trained in accurate bombing."

"It is, however, impossible while aiming at military objectives to avoid destruction to civilian buildings. It is our intention to reduce this destruction to a minimum. Since our attack will be in the daylight, you will be able to see for yourselves that these statements are true."

units, carried out a series of crippling bombing and strafing raids against enemy positions at Tambi Bay, Bobdubi, Komiatum and the Ishnau.

Fifty Japanese Zeros were intercepted over New Guinea by a vastly outnumbered formation of P-38 Lightnings. Gen. MacArthur's communique said. The huge air armada turned and fled before the speedy Lightnings, but not before two Zeros were shot down, four probably destroyed and two damaged. No Allied planes were lost.

Buin-Faisl, scene of Japan's humiliating sea and air defeat Saturday, was the target for another heavy American air attack Sunday when a huge armada of Liberators, dauntless divebombers and average torpedo bombers roared against the Kahili airbase and shipping in the harbor.

More than 90 tons of high explosive, incendiary and fragmentation bombs were poured on the targets, raising to more than 200 tons the weight of explosives poured on the roadsteads and airbase installations in the past 48 hours.

HUGE NAZI LOSSES CLAIMED IN RUSSIA

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, July 19.—Daily German losses on the Russian front have averaged 257 tanks, 144 planes and about 10,000 men since the start of the summer offensive, a Soviet military commentator declared over the Moscow radio today.

He put the total number of Nazi tanks destroyed at 3,342; planes at 2,005 and manpower at 130,000. The broadcast was heard in New York by NBC.

MILITARY POINTS IN ROME SUFFER BOMBER ATTACK

structions, particularly with regard to where the boundaries of Vatican City abut upon the limits of Rome itself.

Cathedrals, churches, cultural establishments, monuments, seats of learning and of science, historic shrines and structures dear to Christendom were placed upon the prohibited list. The raid was made in daylight and the most experienced pilots and bombardiers chosen for the job.

Close To Shrines

"In some cases," an official statement said, "high-powered generating plants—important targets for our planes—were built so close to shrines that vibrations can be felt in the holy precincts."

In other words, some damage not intended may be inescapable. But no precautions were overlooked in the planning of the attack to ensure that insofar as possible in the human equation destruction would be visited only upon objectives vitally contributive to the war into which Mussolini cynically plunged his people three years, one month and nine days ago.

The people of Rome had many advance warnings that when the exigencies of war demanded it, their city would be bombed. Time and again in the British House of Commons Prime Minister Winston Churchill and Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden had announced that Rome could not forever be spared the horrors of war any more than London was spared, or Canterbury, Coventry, Plymouth or Cardiff.

The statement telling how numerous vital military objectives nestled close to shrines that have withstood the ravages of time during the centuries of Rome's history added:

"This adds materially to the difficulties of avoiding damage outside the target area."

Crews assigned to the job were fully aware of the special risks they had to assume in order to carry out specific instructions to safeguard non-military treasures of the eternal city.

Careful Bombing

An authoritative spokesman said: "More pains were taken to prevent the bombing of religious and cultural Rome than Mussolini, hiding in his palace during today's raid, ever took."

"Over a period of years, Mussolini designedly brought more war planes and armaments to Rome. He increased the size of the big marshalling yards and his Fascist gangsters built many of their war factories on the outskirts of the Vatican."

"It is from this war engine that weapons to kill our soldiers have been coming. Rome is not the most important distribution center for men and materials in Italy."

"German troops move in and out of Rome habitually. Therefore it is a key point of distribution and plays a big role in the Italian war strategy."

For months, it was pointed out, the railway lines leading out of Rome and sidings within the city limits have been jammed with German troops.

All advices from the Sicilian front meanwhile were encouraging in the extreme.

Contrast To Nazi Raids

The Rome attack, with its careful precision bombing, was a stark contrast to the German mass raids against Warsaw, Rotterdam and the cities of England. But the Axis, despite its own irresponsible bombings of the last few years, has been quick to launch an outcry every time a German city was raided.

Berlin has always accused the allies of deliberate attacks against cultural non-military targets. In the case of Cologne, they charged overlooking the fact the most iman ultimatum calling on the Italian people to capitulate or to "suffer the consequences."

While there was no official reply to the ultimatum, Berlin sources quoted Italian newspapers as stating that Italy would not drop out of the conflict.

It was recalled that recently President Roosevelt assured the Pope that the Vatican and historic non-military buildings would be spared in the event of an attack on that city.

Rome and Washington were the only important capital cities that had not felt the crash of bombs so far in the war.

London and Berlin have suffered heavy damage in exchange of aerial blows since the outbreak of World War II.

Tokyo was hit on April 18, 1942, when 16 twin-engine army bombers took off from the aircraft carrier Hornet and blasted military objectives in that city but spared the Imperial Palace.

The attack on Rome came as Allied airmen pressed forward in Sicily, just a short distance from the Italian mainland.

The first announcement of the raid failed to give details on extent of damage.

'MUSICALE GARDEN TEA' PLANNED BY D.A.R. GROUP

A special meeting of the ways and means committee of Lawrence chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, was held in the home of the Misses Lillian and Anna Perry, East Grant street, on Saturday afternoon.

The object of the session was to complete arrangements for the "Musical Garden Tea" to be held in the gardens of the home of Mrs. Grace Phillips Johnson, Moody avenue. It will take place on Thursday afternoon, August 12, for the benefit of the Blood Bank.

The particular work undertaken by the National Society Daughters of the American Revolution is underwriting the expenses of the blood plasma project, to which Lawrence chapter has contributed during the present year, and is continuing this work on a much larger scale.

In addition to the attractiveness of the Johnson gardens, Sue Harvard, known in married life as Mrs. Herbert Newton Armstrong, has graciously consented to contribute a group of songs. She will be accompanied by Mrs. Katharine Nesbitt Allen. This program in itself insures a large attendance of friends of Lawrence chapter.

Infants Honored
Mrs. William Kyle and six months old son, David William, were honored by a circle of friends Friday evening in the home of Mrs. Ernest King, Thorpe street. The occasion was in the nature of a shower honoring the infant, and he was the recipient of many dainty gifts.

Another highlight was the surprise given their hostess' little eight weeks old daughter, Janet Lea, who also shared honors. She too, was remembered with a collection of baby gifts.

The time was spent informally, and lunch was served by Mrs. King with Mrs. Claude Crane and Mrs. Leonard Dandy, aides.

Good Neighbor Club
Mrs. Harry Robinson of the Youngstown road, will entertain the Good Neighbor Club membership at her home on Tuesday, and not on Wednesday as previously planned.

ENSIGNS SHARE HONORS AT CASCADE GATHERING

Honoring Ensign Lois Gibson and Ensign Mary Thomassy, both graduate Nurses of Jameson Memorial and New Castle hospitals respectively who will soon take up their duties with the U. S. Navy, were honored by a group of their co-workers at a picnic outing at Cascade Park on Friday night.

The guest list included fifteen nurses of Jameson Memorial Hospital where the two honorees are affiliated as members of the professional staff.

Festivities were launched with a period of swimming, and following an appetizing menu was served at sheltered tables in the park grove. Climaxing the occasion, the guests of honor were each presented with an individual personal farewell gift from the group.

Ensign Gibson and Ensign Thomassy will leave New Castle on Tuesday for Philadelphia.

Friendship Circle Meets
Regular monthly meeting of the Friendship Missionary Circle met in the home of Mrs. Charles Caldwell of Gardner Lane on Thursday evening. Mrs. Clarence Thompson was devotional leader and the speaker for the evening was Mrs. Charles Robinson. After a short business meeting, lunch was served by the hostess and co-hostesses, Mrs. Margaret Hetrick and Mrs. Erma Lowrey. The next meeting will be August 19, at the home of Mrs. B. P. Weyrick of West Washington street extension.

Party For Newlywed
Air raid wardens of Post 31 held a dinner in honor of one of its wardens, Mrs. H. W. Clemens, nee Lila Smith, a bride of June 17, the event being a picnic at the Cascade Park grove.

The evening was spent with enjoyable pastimes, and later Mrs. Clemens received a shower of lovely gifts.

Old Time Rebekahs
Members of the Old Time Rebekah Club, will meet Wednesday with Mrs. Nora James on John street, for a noon luncheon party. Regular business and social time will occupy the later afternoon hours.

PHIPPS-PUTNAM WEDDING TAKES PLACE IN CHURCH

A pretty wedding ceremony took place in the First Methodist church on Saturday afternoon, when Miss Harriet Phipps, daughter of Mrs. C. B. Phipps of 1214 Delaware avenue, became the bride of Raymond Putnam of Sharpsville son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Putnam of Centerville, in the presence of a large gathering of friends and relatives of the young couple.

Dr. B. R. McKnight, pastor, was the officiating minister, and he pronounced the service at 2:30 o'clock.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Robert Phipps of Niagara Falls, N. Y., was attractive in her wedding gown of white marquisette, floor length, fashioned with sweetheart neckline. Her arm bouquet was made up of white roses and stephanotis. Miss Vivienne Jenkins of Youngstown, O., as maid of honor, wore a pink taffeta gown and carried an arm cluster of pink roses.

Herman Jackson of Orangeville, O., served the bridegroom as best man, and ushering were Pvt. Harold Fleming of Texas, and Samuel McCleary.

A program of appropriate music was contributed by the church organist, Miss Lillian Sarver. Included in her group of numbers, she played preceding the ceremony, "Pastorale" by Guilmant, "In The Garden Of Tomorrow" by Deppen, and "Liesbestraum" by Liszt. During the exchange of vows, she contributed echoes of "I Love You Truly," "O Promise Me" and "At Dawn." The "Bridal Chorus" was played by Lohengren by Wagner for the procession, and "Mendelssohn's" was chosen for the recessional.

A wedding reception for the immediate families followed at a tea room, 234 Highland avenue, nuptial motif predominating.

The bride is an employee of the Pennsylvania Power Co., and the groom is a dispatcher at Sharpsville as a dispatcher.

The couple left on a trip, and upon returning, will take up residence at 1214 Delaware avenue, this city.

Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Putnam and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Putnam, of Centerville, Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Putnam and son of Erie, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Minknick of Clarendon, Mr. and Mrs. D. P. Warner of Franklin, John Jackson and Chloire Wheeler of Sharpsville, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Phipps and daughter Eleanor of Niagara Falls, N. Y., Mr. and Mrs. Herman Jackson of Orangeville, O., Mr. and Mrs. Robert Gray of Pittsburgh, Mrs. Frank Glace of Long Island, N. Y., Mrs. Harry Williams of Warren, O., and Miss Vivienne Jenkins, Youngstown, O.

London Bridge Club
Members of the London Bridge club, were entertained in the home of Mrs. Jack Jones on Edgewood avenue, Friday evening. In the three table game, Jane Davis, Mrs. George Duncan and Mrs. Chester Sankey were the prize winners. Lunch was served by the hostess, with Mrs. William Rech, aide.

Couple Married On Golden Wedding Day Of Grandparents

Choosing the golden wedding anniversary of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence H. Stewart of Maryland avenue, the marriage of Miss Phyllis Jean Warnock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David H. Warnock of 937 Winslow avenue and Andrew George Kovalek, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Kovalek, of R. D. 7, New Castle, was impressively celebrated at an impressive ceremony on Sunday afternoon, July 18 in Christ's Lutheran church.

Simplicity was the keynote, and in the presence of the immediate families, the vows were exchanged at 12:30 o'clock with the Rev. W. R. Sommerfield, officiating. He used the single ring service.

For her wedding, the bride selected a smartly styled Navy blue sheer crepe street length suit outlined with a dainty ruffle of eyelet lace in mist pink. Her shoulder bouquet was of pink roses and sweet-peas. As her sister's matron of honor, Mrs. W. E. Snee of this city, wore a dusty pink crepe dress, street length, with accompaniments in white, and a shoulder corsage of white roses.

A wedding dinner and reception followed in the Coral Lounge of The Castleton for guests numbering thirty. Pink and white appointments predominated, and the bridal table was centered with a tiered cake, topped with miniature figures, this feature honoring both couples.

Following, Mr. and Mrs. Kovalek departed on a trip to Cleveland, O., from where they will continue on a lake cruise to Detroit, Mich., Buffalo, N. Y., and other points. Upon returning, they will be "at home" at the residence of the bride's parents for the present.

Mr. and Mrs. Stewart were later honored at a reception and family dinner served in the Warnock home. Prior to her marriage, Mrs. Stewart was the former Florence Bell Stewart of Worthville, Jefferson county. He was born at Grange, Pa., also in Jefferson county.

Mrs. Kovalek, who graduated from New Castle high in June, 1939, is employed at the Shenango Pottery. Mr. Kovalek, also an employee of the same concern, attended Shenango high.

Both couples, the bride and groom of Sunday, July 19, 1943, and the bride and groom of fifty years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence H. Stewart, were the recipients of a collection of many lovely gifts.

Present from out of town, were Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Stewart, Mrs. Frank Woodrum and Mrs. James Stewart, Jr., all of Akron, O.

TRIPLE EVENT MARKS PICNIC AT GRITTIES

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Grittle of 820 East Washington street were hosts at a picnic affair at their home on Sunday, at which time the event served a triple purpose. First, that of announcing the engagement of June Alyne Aubel, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ross M. Aubel of 109 North Lee avenue, to Corp. Charles C. Bacon, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Bacon of Cecil avenue, Corp. Bacon, who has just completed service overseas, will report at the Pratt air base in Kansas at the end of his visit.

Second the occasion proved a medium of celebrating the wedding anniversary of Pfc. and Mrs. Robert A. Bacon of Scott Field, Ill., who were numbered among the guests, and, in addition, it marked the birthday anniversary of the U. S. service men's mother, Mrs. E. R. Bacon. This trio were appropriately remembered with a collection of gifts from the assemblage.

Sixty in attendance enjoyed a bountiful menu served at tables placed about the lawn of the Grittle residence, at noon. The time that ensued was spent in playing croquet, badminton and other features.

Attending from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. E. N. Nalnak and family of Pittsburgh, Mr. and Mrs. H. S. Service and family and Mrs. Laura Moury of Andover, O. P. D. Moury, Mr. and Mrs. C. Dickman and Mr. and Mrs. P. E. Bacon and daughters of Hartford, O.; Mrs. Andrew Young and daughters, Thelma Bacon, Mr. and Mrs. Earl Moury and Mrs. C. L. Moury of Sharon, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Smock and family of Transfer and Mr. and Mrs. R. P. Braham and family of Grove City.

Guests At Allens
Mr. and Mrs. J. T. Allen of Euclid avenue, entertained as guests in their home, Mrs. Ava Allen Wiley and daughter, Marjorie, of Oakdale, Ill., who accompanied the body of the late Rev. A. A. Wiley, husband of Mrs. Wiley, to Mercer, Pa., for burial in the family plot. Funeral services were held in Illinois on Wednesday. The late Rev. Wiley, a native of Oakdale, Ill., was an uncle of Mrs. Allen.

Other guests at the Allen home included Robert R. Allen of Birmingham, Mich., Mrs. Eleanor Allen Hydon and son Bert of Daytona Beach, Fla.

Mrs. Hydon and son have been guests here in the past three weeks, and on Tuesday, will start homeward. Mrs. James T. Allen will accompany them as far as Washington, D. C., where they will visit with Mrs. Hydon's father, and the father-in-law of Mrs. Allen, J. Myron Allen.

House Guests At Slacks
Mrs. Robert Slack of 304 Cascade street, had as house guests over the week end, Mrs. H. M. Reynolds, her sister from Pittsburgh, and Mrs. Sam Port of Washington, D. C.

MEN ARE GROWING UP

IN THE MISERABLE, matted jungles of the South Pacific islands, in the heat of Sicily amid bursting shells and the crash of bombs, hundreds of thousands of Americans today know far better than anybody else in the world what they are fighting for.

To those grimy, tired men there is no mystery about the objectives of this war. They have no notions about any postwar utopia. Nor are they fighting for any world superstate. They are fighting just for home.

They want to come back to cities like New Castle to tree-lined streets, to the same room at the front of the house where the birds chatter in the early morning, to a job, a girl, the family. They want to have some fun and to make some money and to be able to buy the little extras. They want to get ahead on their own steam, as their fathers did, and their grandfathers did before them.

On battlefronts all over the world, Americans of all creeds and all faiths are fighting together with just such simple thoughts in their minds. They do not worry about the next man's politics or religion. They kid each other in their good-humored American way. But back in all their minds is that one thought of home, the home they knew before this war started.

Americans on the home front are confused and bewildered. It would do them good to know how the men far away feel about things. These men want to come back to the America the left, and Americans at home have the duty of keeping it that way for them, and trying to make it even better.

MORE CIVILIAN GOODS

Apparently some increase in the production of civilian goods is to be allowed during the remainder of this year and next year, although the volume is under debate in Washington. Mr. Byrnes, director of war mobilization, has instructed the WPB to prepare a complete list of civilian requirements.

Military authorities are in general opposed to increases that will demand critical materials and put additional strain on manpower. They will endeavor to hold increases down to a minimum.

Items being given serious attention include electric irons, electric washing machines, electric refrigerators, light bulbs, fuses, scissors, safety pins, hair curlers, tea kettles, telephones, electric fans, toilet tissue and repairs parts of many kinds. Production of more farm machinery and repairs already has been allowed.

A rather intricate pattern of distribution is to be set up if additional production is certified. A city which has had little or no increase in population is to receive repairs parts. Cities which have grown considerably are to get new goods.

According to the scheme, at present under consideration, boards probably will not come into the picture but distribution will be made through "labor-management" committees of war plants or through county farm boards.

A BIG DIFFERENCE

In all this talk about subsidies, one of the favorite arguments is that England does it and it works, so why not try it here? We have had England used as an example before—in the income tax. Proponents of higher income taxes have repeatedly said that income taxes were higher in England than here, so why not boost ours?

Just as they fail to take into account the different conditions—for England doesn't have nearly so many taxes as we—just so it is true that conditions with regard to the subsidy are entirely different.

For instance in Great Britain the government is the middleman between the consumer and the producer in the matter of food. The government buys up the food supply—a comparatively simple matter because so little of it is produced at home and it is easy to seize it when the ships come in. The case of the United States with its thousands of producers and distributors and its export as well as its import business is entirely different.

Yet this is not all the difference. Opponents of subsidies here say it will help bring on inflation because it will stimulate buying, and increase the public debt. Those who favor subsidies say it has not brought in inflation in England. But here the difference is again marked. Let us not forget that England produces only a fraction of its own food. The government buys and distributes all the food. It pays a subsidy on certain commodities to roll back the price to the consumer. This costs the government $100,000,000 a year. This may seem inflationary but it is only half the truth!

Don't forget that John Bull gets a lot of food from Uncle Sam each year. It gets much provender on lease-lend and pays nothing for it. The government resells it, rolling back the price in some instances. But John Bull is still ahead the difference between $800,000,000 worth of goods which its gets free from Uncle Sam and can sell and the $500,000,000 it spends for subsidies. This is a difference of $300,000,000 a year which goes on the credit side of the ledger and is deflationary rather than inflationary.

Compare this with the situation in our country where in granting subsidies the government will have to pay the market price and then pay the subsidy. It is estimated that if the subsidy were carried out as planned by the star-gazers this would cost the taxpayer two billions a year. And there is no Santa Claus in Europe, Asia or Africa who will lend or give us the food, to make this a good proposition. Hence the danger in inflation.

A surplus of potatoes is now reported. If this trend spreads to beef and gasoline, good.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

"JUST A MINUTE" TOO INDEFINITE

The phrase, "just a minute" is familiar to most parents. Sometimes it means, just that, sometimes it means five minutes or more, and sometimes it means never. The youngster reading the funnies or absorbed in some other strong interest might really mean a minute or so when he first uses this reply. But the time passes faster than he realizes and, with a little practice, he can forget the matter entirely.

The parent is annoyed by the delay and commands again or repeatedly, each time more loudly, until the child does what he was told. By this time the youngster is vexed almost as much as his parent. But the next time he is asked or told to do something and says "Just a minute" the same kind of protracted reminders will probably be given before he will obey.

"I have a girl of eleven," writes a mother. "We can't seem to get along. The main thing is, she is not obedient. When I call her she says, 'Just a minute,' and if I don't call again several times, she forgets all about it."

A Reasonable Response
Mrs. Myers and I recall when each of our children began the "wait a minute" habit. She and I agreed that they had heard it first from us. I remember vividly that one of them, when about four, having asked me to do something and been told "In just a minute," asked after he must have waited a quarter of an hour, "How long is a minute, Daddy?"

We agreed also that "In just a minute" might be a very reasonable response, that except in a most extraordinary situation, there is no good reason why a child should jump and do what he is requested or commanded as if a bomb had burst. Therefore, we agreed that we should take the youngster at his word and then hold him to it.

We found that this worked out to our satisfaction and, in the long run, to the satisfaction of the child. Sometimes the youngster, instead of saying "Just a minute," would say "As soon as I finish this page, please." I think such requests practically always were granted.

Another Experiment
We also tried another experiment. We made an effort not to interrupt the child when he was busily engaged at work or play but to respect the regular time he counted on as his own. Moreover, we tried to hold to the rule of making a request rather than a command at such times as those when the child might naturally feel occasion to say "Just a minute."

Of course this rule may be difficult to observe, yet it brings good dividends in terms of cooperation. You see when one follows this rule literally one has no occasion to feel vexed if a child does not respond at all. Then instead of setting a penalty for prolonged delay one can calmly say more effectively "Do you choose to do this or not?" One might even say, "If you do it in so many minutes I don't want you to do it at all."

Whatever your way of meeting this problem, you can't afford to precede in the usual fashion of actually participating in a kind of quarrel with the child. We parents should be too proud to war against our children with words.

One Man's Opinion

Well, Mussolini's balcony is beginning to wobble.

Churchill has hold of one brace and Roosevelt's got the other and they've begun shaking it and the first thing you know Il Duce will be in the arms of the populace waiting below.

They'll shake him down like an overripe plum in a good thing too but the world will learn no lesson from it.

There will always be ambitious men and ambitious followers to hang on to their togas and we should have considerably more respect for the brass loud-mouth leaders than the sneaky war heebers who peek out each morning to see what flag to raise today.

We saw it in Africa where the allies were received with open arms by people who had been trafficking with the Axis for years and we see it again in Sicily.

Those pictures of the citizens slapping their "deliverers" on the back and pelting them with flowers give us no thrill.

Sure they hate Mussolini now—he's going down for the third time. But they loved him when he had it.

Thought for the day: Keep your powder dry and don't trust nobody.

POOR MR. HENRY PECK!

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 8:26. Sun rises tomorrow 5:46.

We are all interested in what our soldiers are doing at the front, and don't forget our boys are interested in what we are doing at home. Do the things that will please them.

There is no shortage of beefers. Remember back when people liked to serve in the Juries in court at two dollars a day thought it was pretty good pay?

Some people who used to get tired of wearing clothes a few years old some years ago, now think they are all right.

It don't always take horsepower to do team work. Humans are teaming up now and doing good work.

It has been proposed that all newborn children shall be fingerprinted so they can be traced when they are lost, but suppose the wallpaper has been changed lately.

Having the contents of a refrigerator stolen now is a severe blow.

The more closet space and shelf room a house has, the more useless junk the family accumulates.

Two little six-year-old boys were bragging of their prowess at various and sundry skills, and one "mother's pride and joy" swaggingly exclaimed: "I bet I can remember longer 'an you. I can remember when I was born!" "Oh, that ain't nothing," said the second "m p a j." "I can remember when God said, 'Stand up, Johnny, and let me put your eyes in'."

Why wouldn't it be a good idea to stop divorce after the third marriage and make the third marriage legal and permanent in all the states by federal law?

Snakes always did enjoy taking a bite at berry pickers.

There is even talk that the modern bartender should know his stuff, what there is of it.

"I think I will put the motion before the house," said the chorine as she danced onto the stage.

Leaving good stuff to eat on the plate is unpatriotic.

Another story has come to us from overseas—this one about a Dutch woman who was caught by the Gestapo for listening to London on her radio.

After a very stern lecture, the Gestapo chief asked: "But why did you do it?"

"Hitler has promised us that he is going to broadcast victory celebrations from London, and I always listen in to London so that I won't miss it," came the quiet reply.

America has been made great by great people—our soldiers!

Most of us spend our time hunting for a regular job, and when we get it we spend our time thinking about where we will spend our vacation.

Now we hear so often "Further information later." And that often means a long time.

TELEPHONING BOYS

"Mother thinks it is wrong for me to call boys on the telephone to ask them to take me places. Our club has a weekly party and since I have no particular boy, I must find one for myself. So when I have no date for that night, I go on a telephone hunt. I tell mother she is old fashioned—that times have changed. What do you think?"

Answer: It is perfectly proper and "safe" for a girl occasionally to ask a boy to escort her on special occasions, such as to school proms, which occur only once or twice a year; if you make a habit of doing this sort of thing weekly, you will establish the reputation of a telephone pest and ruin any popularity among the opposite sex that you might otherwise enjoy. Men do not admire girls who make a man-hunt obvious. This situation has prevailed through the generations and will, doubtless, continue to do so. You might ask two or three different boys to the first two or three parties with you; but if they show no future interest in going, you will either have to go dateless or stay home—or become a telephone pest, which will get you nowhere.

Question: Please give me some suggestions for the proper arrangement of cloth, centerpiece, etc., for a buffet supper table. You have previously given me the arrangement for dishes and food.—Mrs. F.

Answer: At a buffet supper the table is the main point of interest and should, therefore, be given great care. Use your very best cloth, which may be a lace or embroidered tea cloth or a plain cloth of heavy, satin damask. Have a centerpiece of flowers flanked by candlesticks on each side; or if you have two candelabra (matching in design and size) use these preferably. If you have only one candelabra, place it in the center of your table flanked by two bowls of flowers.

Tomorrow—Importance of Re-decoration.

Senator Glean tells us: The United States is training her fighting men—eight millions of them and of all racial strains—to be self-reliant, to develop their own initiative, to think independently, to win against heavy odds, respect for authority but contempt for "stuffed shirt" pettifoggery, and the ability to look ahead and to see a thing through.

That is the kind of training the men will have when they come home. Their voice and their viewpoint should be understood NOW by the so-called politicians who are trying to rebuild the United States Government on a new and high socialistic pattern.

What these eight million want when they come home is to find a "healthy" and vigorous America imbued with the same pioneer spirit, energy and daring that built our railroads, our farms and our factories.

They do not want our industries throttled and hamstrung by bureaucratic edict and red tape, discouraged and choked to a place where they must depend on federal aid—subsidy—for a mere existence.

Back in 1919, we had only three million who took off their uniform and put on civilian clothes. Yet they exerted a powerful influence on legislative affairs. This time we shall have three times as many—three times the voice and voting strength.

Unless the country and the lawmakers and the appointed administrative officials heed the warning and build the kind of an economy and the kind of government "of, by and for the people"—not for political flinglers, red-herring eaters, smoke-screen artists, galvanizing agents and skillful-skulduggers—the boys "over there" expect when they get back "over here," there is liable to be plenty of fireworks.

In return for what our boys—our men—are trying to do and are doing, they want and will demand an opportunity to take part in rebuilding this big country. They want and will demand a return to state's rights. They want and will demand an opportunity for individual initiative. . . for the profit system that returns to any man as much success as he is willing to expend in energy to achieve and to accomplish.

Our fighting men do not want "handouts" from a grateful country. Most of them have spent two years or more in the Army and that is enough regimentation to last them and their families for a generation or two. They want an equal opportunity with the boys who stayed home and made high wages while they risked their necks on foreign fields.

While we have no election in the offing, let us forget all propaganda that has been fed us by domestic news factories and foreign agencies who are even now trying to formulate OUR national economy after hostilities cease, so it will benefit THEM first, and us second—let us give deep and serious consideration to the future by asking ourselves: "Just what kind of a country are we building now for the boys to come home to when it's over, over there?"

If they can die in one brave deed and after all the years may hold. Surely, to serve the lesser need, I, too, can be as bold.

If they can shut their eyes to self and deaf become to pleasure's call, Surely, forgetting ease and pelf, I, too, can do my duty small.

If war's grim horrors they can "ace" And stand unmoved long 'ours' through, Surely, at my far safer place, I can become a soldier, too.

If they can fling their lives away, All we have cherished long to save, Surely, whate'er my task today, I, too, can be as brave.

A man must have something to be proud of, if only the fact that he paid a fashionable dentist too much for his bridges.

If a man is what he eats he can't be himself on an empty stomach.

It is easy to forget the little things that used to bother us now.

After we near some people about their Victory Gardens we feel like going to see them but we don't get invited.

Inside Washington

Political Strife Spreads Through Nation
Solons Want To Know How Home Folks Stand
Congressional Recess May Shed Some Light

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, July 19.—With congress in recess at last, Washington is the quietest town on the Potomac.

It is not that official activity is lacking. Political strife, however, is spread all over the national landscape, from ocean to ocean and from Canada to Mexico, instead of being concentrated within the smallest limits of the District of Columbia. This scattering makes a multiplicity of small skirmishes rather than one big battle. The skirmishing is vicious but it is deficient in wholesale spectacularity.

Our World War participation is not an issue. All hands are agreed that this is a job at which we must go the limit. Ex-isolationists are as enthusiastic as are enthusiasts as anybody else.

True, there are two schools of thought on the war proposition, but they do not differ as to whether or not we ought to fight the Axis for all we are worth, now that we are in on the rumpus. The difference of opinion relates to the question of the competency with which we are doing it.

Just now Vice President Henry A. Wallace leads the group that says we are bungling, with Secretary of Commerce Jesse Jones as chief bungler. Naturally, Jesse heads the opposite faction.

The two make rival charges that the other one is, not to express it immoderately, a "liar."

But that is a matter of detail. Jesse is as pro-war as Henry is.

The question of technique is what they are quarreling over. It is a nasty scrap, but Jesse is no more anti-war than Henry is.

Wallace and Jones are not "pro" and "anti" war, respectively. Wallace and Jones, instead, are "pro" and "anti" New Dealer.

Henry is a "pro" Jesse is an "anti" on the New Deal question.

Henry contends that New Dealism is what we need today, always have and always will, forever. He reckons that the present is a dandy opportunity to get it established as a permanency.

Jones recognizes it as possibly necessary in the current emergency, but wants it guaranteed that it will not slip over into future peacetime.

In short, it is a post-war problem. That is why congress was in such a hurry to recess, enabling the legislators to get home and ascertain what their various constituencies thing about it.

Some of them have their minds made up already, but a lot of localities are uncertain. They have been perishing to talk it all over with their neighbors. It is the New Deal that worries them; not the unanimity of anti-Axis sentiment.

That the New Deal has lost ground popularly is generally acquiesced in on Capitol Hill, but how lasting will that sentiment be? And how widespread is it?

Meanwhile, wrangling goes on among bureaucratic heads in Washington.

They cuss back and forth, as between Henry Wallace and Jesse Jones, but they do not decide anything. The congressmen are the boys who have to be elected, and pretty soon, too.

It is really funny. Two fights are on—A war fight (international) and an internal fight (economic). No. 1 is 100 per cent one way. No. 2 it to be guessed on.

This congressional recess may be enlightening.

I'd guess 100 per cent on the 100 per cent question. I would not deduct even the Americanized-Jap vote. I know as good Jap-Americans as anybody does. The Italo-Americans, whom I know, are as anti-Axis as could be asked of them. Good German-Americans date back way beyond Carl Schurz day.

But there is a pro and anti-New Deal controversy.

Yet, it is an inter-American pro and anti-New Deal wrangle among Americans—between folk like Vice President Wallace and Commerce Secretary Jones.

That is what is raging out in the sticks—congressionally.

The World and the Mud Puddles

A REMARKABLE PORTFOLIO

Off and on, there is a story of a man who has been working for twenty-five years with one organization. That is an accomplishment in itself. But I have in mind a chap who not only has worked twenty-five years for the same organization but has been very successful in his work and has served that organization and many citizens well.

On June 17th, 1918, Percy P. MacNab became a member of the Phoenix Mutual Life Insurance Company of Hartford, Connecticut, so that in a way June 17th, 1943, was a Silver Anniversary for Mr. MacNab had then been with the Phoenix twenty-five years.

I was very much interested the other day in looking over a beautifully bound portfolio containing letters of congratulation which Mr. MacNab had received on this Anniversary. The first letter was from the President of the Phoenix Mutual Life Insurance Company himself and so on the letters ran—a letter from each officer of the Phoenix and then came letters from the managers of practically every Phoenix office in these United States, from Maine to California.

There were letters from Portland, Maine; from Boston, from Providence, from New Haven, New York, Baltimore, Washington, D. C.; Richmond, Atlanta, Chattanooga, Cleveland, Cincinnati, Saint Louis, Omaha, Bismark, Minneapolis, Salt Lake City, Seattle, Portland, Oregon; Denver, San Francisco and others which I fail just now to remember.

Nurses Aides Class Graduates

Third Class Of Red Cross Nurses Aides Receive Caps At New Castle Hospital

"The Red Cross Nurses Aides Corps is an essential part of the war effort, inasmuch as aides help to release trained nurses who are now needed in the armed forces. So said Dr. E. F. Henderson, principal speaker at the graduation exercises of 22 Red Cross nurses aides, held Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the New Castle Hospital School of Nursing. Dr. Henderson continued, "Not only do the Red Cross nurses aides acquire nursing knowledge of benefit for themselves, but they also receive satisfaction in helping to take care of the sick, and helping on the home front."

Dr. Henderson was introduced by Mrs. Harry Barkby, chairman of the nurses aides committee of the Lawrence county chapter, American Red Cross. His talk proved inspiring to the new class, and he also offered his congratulations on their achievement.

Sister Mary Annette conducted the capping ceremony, and placed the caps upon the heads of the 22 nurses aides. Sister Annette was the instructor of the class in charge of the 35 hours of class work, and also supervised the 45 hours of hospital work required in order to complete the course. For her excellent cooperation and untiring work, she was later presented with a gift from the class in appreciation of her efforts.

Recites Pledge

Sister Mary Dolores recited the pledge with the class and following: "Angels of Mercy" was sung by Mrs. Melba Clark, a member of the new Red Cross Nurses Aides class. Mrs. John E. Elliott presented the pins to the girls and adjusted them on the uniforms, and also commented upon the fine work the girls have accomplished. Mrs. Elliott made mention of the excellent help the nurses aides provided during the weeks of the blood bank.

Miss Elizabeth Breslin, executive secretary of the Lawrence county chapter of the American Red Cross, was included on the speaker's program, and she congratulated the new class and those who received their service stripes. Miss Breslin also commented upon the fine work being done by Mrs. Barkby, chairman of the nurses aides committee. Dr. C. C. Green, chief of the U. S. Citizens Service Corps, Office of Civilian Defense, conducted the class in the O. C. D. oath of allegiance, and then made fitting remarks.

Drive For WAVES On Here This Week

Special Staff Arrives To Examine Group Of Recruits Today

With 12 applications already on file in the current campaign to enroll young women of the local district in the Waves, indications point to a successful effort to enlist women for this branch of the service, releasing men for active naval duty.

This morning, Lieut. Weintraub and a nurse from the Pittsburgh recruiting office arrived to examine applicants and will be here again on Saturday. Those accepted will be sworn in here, eliminating the necessity of going to Pittsburgh for this service.

This evening Yeoman Ember Heyne, here on special recruiting duty, will be stationed at a booth in the Penn theater to answer any questions in regard to this branch of the service.

Wednesday evening, Lieut. Commander E. B. Keckler will be the speaker at a meeting for women interested in the Waves, which will be held at the Elks club. A special film will be shown.

Starting on Thursday, July 22, a special film, "Women in Blue", will also be shown at a local theater.

High Command In Sicily Drive

Military Expert Sees Much Of Interest In Announcement Of Command

FOUR OF LEADERS FROM WEST POINT

(Editor's note: The high command and combat divisions in Sicily are discussed in the following article by Major Paul C. Raborg, noted military analyst and author of "Mechanized Might.")

By MAJOR PAUL C. RABORG

Written Especially For International News Service
NEW YORK, July 19.—There is much information of interest contained in the recent announcement of the high command and combat divisions of the United States portion of the Sicilian expeditionary force.

Of the nine general officers in the high command, four, including General Eisenhower, are West Point graduates; three came in by way of the officers reserve corps; one by what was then known as an appointment from civil life; and one from the ranks. Four were originally infantry officers, one was field artillery, and three were cavalry. All are highly educated.

General Dwight D. Eisenhower, the high commander, was originally commissioned six years before Eisenhower. Generals Allen and Middleton were also commissioned three years before the North African commander-in-chief.

The rule of seniority in the Army has never applied to the appointment of general officers. "Ike" Eisenhower is good humored, suave, kind, and generous. He is a bulldog in determination and an expert in both administration and organization.

Lieutenant General George S. Patton Jr., in command of the Seventh U. S. Army, and thus next in rank to Eisenhower, is the oldest of the division commanders. He is a suave, finished, cosmopolitan of the world. Under this polished surface is tremendous energy and dash.

Major General Omar N. Bradley, who, as corps commander in Sicily is next under Patton, is the youngest of the division commanders. However, he is younger than Terry Allen and Major General Middleton. He is noted for cold blooded dash and the relentless pursuit of any objective.

Major General Terry de La M. Allen, who commands the First Division which has the most distinguished record of any division in Sicily, is at 55 the oldest division commander, but in pep, vim, and dash he exceeds all of the high command with the exception of Patton. He served three years at West Point and was dropped either because of disciplinary action or bad grades in studies. He was later commissioned from civil life. He is almost exactly the same type of officer as Patton—suave, polished, courteous, but as a junior officer was considered to be even more harum scarum and reckless.

Major General Lucian Truscott, who commands the Third Infantry Division, like Patton and Allen, was originally a cavalry officer and noted for great dash.

Major General Troy Middleton, in command of the 45th Infantry Division is the one general of the eight who rose from the ranks. He was a private and corporal in the Seventh and Twenty-ninth Regiments of regular infantry. General Middleton retired after 28 years service in 1937 at his own request, and then re-entered the service when the emergency was declared.

Major General Hugh Gaffey, who commands the Second Armored Division, was a field artillery officer originally. Major General Matthew Ridgway who commands the 82nd Air-borne Division, was a captain Air-borne during World War One. That division is probably the descendant of the 82nd National Army Division which was organized during World War One at Camp Custer, Michigan.

Suicide is unknown among the Zuni Indians of New Mexico.

and south of Orel, the Soviet high command announced. Seventy-eight more German tanks were knocked out of action and 137 Nazi planes were shot down for a toll of 3,427 enemy tanks and 2,005 warplanes smashed in the 14 days since the Nazis launched their ill-fated summer offensive. Announced number of Nazi troops wiped out in the same period rose to 70,600.

(The German high command declared the entire Russian front blazed with bitter fighting as the Soviets unleashed new offensive drives throughout the southern front. Scenes of the new Soviet thrusts, as yet unannounced by Moscow, were said to be the Donets Basin, along the Mius river and in the western Caucasus.

(Stockholm dispatches, declaring the new Soviet southern offensive was designed for the "reconquest of the industrial centers of the eastern Ukraine and annihilation of the German armies east of the Dnieper river," said the drive was double pronged. The northern wing of the push was said to be driving across the upper Donets river southeast of Kharkov, while the southern arm shoved toward the Sea of Azov toward the Nazi anchor base of Tanagerog.)

Costing Germany Heavily

The Moscow press meanwhile declared that the offensive against Orel, which the Nazis tried to pinch off the Orel tip of the Nazi salient between Moscow and Kharkov, was costing the Germans an average of 10,000 men killed daily.

The Moscow newspaper Pravda said a group of Soviet tanks pierced the Orel front and penetrated deep into the enemy's rear, almost to the city's approaches.

In other sectors, said the paper, Soviet troops are consolidating their positions and entrenching "for further attacks."

Air warfare continued on an unprecedented scale, but the Red air force still holds overwhelming air superiority, the paper said.

While Soviet long-range guns were brought to bear on the railroad linking Briansk with Orel, big Russian bombers carried out a blistering attack against the Orel base as well as the station towns of Nalva and Karachev, along the route to Briansk.

Vast fires were ignited at Orel while German trains, munition and supply dumps were left blazing at the station towns in the three-pronged raid, carried out Saturday night.

Nine hundred German troops were listed as wiped out Sunday in the Orel-Kursk sector, while in the regions north and east of Orel, 3,000 or more Nazis were killed. On the army front, the Russians wiped out a battalion of German infantry, liberated a strongly-fortified town near Orel.

Four Families Picnic In Yard
Four families, namely, Langs, Bachs and Millers of Summer avenue and the Higgins family of Audley avenue, enjoyed themselves at a Sunday evening chicken dinner by having the affair outside in Higgins yard. The gathering numbered about 15.

It was noticeable that there was a number of vegetables served that were grown in the various neighbors' victory gardens, such as corn, string beans, carrots, etc.

After the evening meal the conversation was mostly about the good times they had in the neighborhood a number of years ago.

The highlight of this dinner was the fact that Mr. Lang enjoyed having beans rather than having dessert when the time came for that. Mrs. Bach had a special large plate made by the potter for the occasion so that she would not get ahead by the others before she had finished her meal.

The time went so fast that before they knew it, it was 10 o'clock at which time all called it a day and departed.

Feeding Italy After Capture May Be Problem

By ERWIN D. SIAS
(U. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, July 19.—An informed government official today declared that the United Nations can feed the 45,000,000 Italians after Italy is captured without shipping huge quantities of foodstuffs from the United States.

Latest information from Italy, he said, shows an ample supply of food on hand—enough to feed the entire population.

The official warned, however, that the United Nations must mend the badly-broken food distribution system in Italy before the problem can be solved. That, he said, will be a tremendous job.

There will be enough food for the Italian people if it can be properly distributed, the official declared, adding that the only real shortage exists in potatoes for planting, and sugar beet seed.

When and if Italy is captured, the supply of potatoes and sugar beet seeds now moving in from Germany will be cut off. Shipping of potatoes from the United States would be an answer, he pointed out, except for the fact that potatoes are bulky and impractical to ship.

At the same time, the officials said it has not yet been determined whether American sugar beet seeds, of which there is a rather ample supply, will grow in Italian soil and climate.

CARLISLE, Pa. — Thousands of crystal blanks needed for Uncle Sam's wartime radio sets are being produced in a new Pennsylvania hobby. The achievement of Grover Cleveland Hunt, a maintenance engineer at Dickinson College, was praised by Secretary of Commerce Floyd Chaffant.

Dancing, chat and other informal diversions were featured. General chairman of the barbecue was Andy Marape, and committeemen, Anthony C. Ricciardi, Joseph Lombardo, James Puleo, Pat J. Benigas, Ben D. Lombardo, Angelo Colella, Anthony Audino, Anthony Cioffi and Joe Puno.

The next regular meeting of the club will be held on Wednesday, July 28, at 8 o'clock, in the Union Calabro club, with D. E. Cioffi in charge. Plans will be made for the next social event—the club's annual corn roast.

Honest men don't plan treason. They first have a just grievance; when justice is refused, they grow sullen and ruin themselves to hurt their oppressors.

FIRST PILOTS TO BAIL OUT OVER SICILY RETURN

Tell Of Close Call After Landing,
And Of Hold-Up By Italian Officer

By RICHARD TREGASKIS
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

AN AMERICAN FIGHTER BASE IN NORTH AFRICA, July 15—(Delayed)—Stretching a few sore muscles suffered as they attained the distinction of being the first American pilots to parachute to safety over Sicily, three tank fliers were back at this base today recounting their experiences.

The men—Lieuts. Robert F. Hood of Dacoma, Okla., Frank T. T. Greene of Cutbank, Mont., and Capt. Paul S. Steigel of Jefferson City, Mo.—returned to this base from the invaded island on a landing barge.

Each in turn had a unique experience, Greene coming closest to death. After his plane was hit, he bailed out only to be fired on while he hung in the chute harness. A bullet passed through the shoulder of his pack without touching the flesh. After landing, he found himself surrounded by American infantrymen who mistook him for an enemy, and closed in menacingly with guns ready.

"A little talking soon convinced 'em I was an American," Greene said.

Robbed By Officer

Hood could laugh at his meeting with an Italian officer who was more interested in a little highway robbery than in fighting.

Hood, on his third mission over enemy territory, was on a strafing assignment east of Canicatti when his motor was hit by flak and he was forced to hit the silk.

"I landed in a valley and, feeling sure it was American-held territory, I decided the best thing to do was lie under a tree and think about the thing awhile. But while I was lying there a little Italian officer came up with a pistol. He was talking Italian and I couldn't understand him, but I discovered he was holding me up," Hood said.

"He didn't want to do me any harm. He just took my pen, purse, knife and money from my escape kit. He took off as soon as he saw an American half-track coming over the hill—he didn't relish any combat."

Friendly Civilians

Capt. Steigel told of befriending some Italian civilians, who likewise were averse to combat. "I was trying to find out whether I had parachuted onto friendly or enemy territory," explained Steigel. "I saw two civilians approaching. Unarmed, they came forward with their hands up. We chatted about five minutes, I trying to interpose a few words in French, but we didn't understand each other until a jeep appeared with an American officer. Then everything suddenly was O. K."

Coast Guard Officer Held In Shooting Of Cashier In New York

Romance Of Lieutenant And Woman 13 Years Younger,
Ends In Staten Island
Tragedy

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, July 19.—The romance of a married Coast Guard lieutenant and a cashier 13 years his junior ended in tragedy on Staten Island early Saturday when a Navy revolver barked six times in a swiftly-moving taxi.

Rita Costello, 28, of West New Brighton, sank back upon the cab's cushions dead, all six bullets in her body.

Seized by police as he sat beside the dead girl, Lieut. (J.G.) Adam A. Rother, 41, U. S. C. G., appeared dazed as he was charged with first degree murder and questioned by police, Navy and Coast Guard officers.

The lieutenant insisted that the girl had been struggling for the gun when she was shot beneath a trestle of the Staten Island Rapid Transit company, in Clifton, N. Y.

Rother, a member of the Coast Guard for 20 years, told officials he had been intimate with Miss Costello, according to Assistant District Attorney Joseph Kennedy, and he allegedly had given her $160 and later $220 to finance an operation.

Kennedy said Rother told him that they had quarreled in the cab because Miss Costello, who was employed at the Blue Moon, a Greenwich Village cafe, had demanded $500 and threatened to "tell" the lieutenant's wife, who lives in New London, Conn.

Ration Pointers For Coming Week

Current stamps and coupons for purchasing rationed food and other commodities, according to the OPA in Pittsburgh, are as follows:

Autos—New and used 1942 autos may be bought only with ration board purchasing certificate. Those in the $2500 class are excluded.

Canned Goods—Blue N, P and Q stamps in Ration Book 2 used in the purchase of canned and processed foods, are now valid and remain in effect through August 7.

Coffee—Stamp No. 21 in Ration Book 1 good for one pound of coffee through July 21. Stamp No. 22 in Ration Book 1 becomes valid July 22 and will be good for one pound of coffee through August 11, a period of three weeks.

Gasoline—No. 5-A coupons good for three gallons each through July 21. 6-A's become valid July 22 and remain in effect for a period of four months. B and C coupons good for two gallons each for period fixed by ration board.

T coupons, good for five gallons each, expire in the gasoline shortage area on July 25, when new "TT" coupons go into effect.

All motorists and other gasoline users are required to endorse in ink on the face of their gasoline coupons the license numbers at the time of receipt of the rationed rations. The new method of endorsing gasoline coupons will begin on July 22—at which time not only the stamps in the new ration books must be endorsed, but all coupons possessed on that date must likewise be so inscribed.

Formerly motorists endorse their coupons on the back at time of purchase of gasoline.

Meat, Butter, Cheese, Fats—Red P, Q, R and S stamps in ration Book 2 now may be used in the purchase of rationed meats, including canned meat and canned fish, and remain in force through July 31.

Shoes—Stamp No. 18 in Ration Book 1 good for one pair of shoes through October 31.

Baseball, track and football shoes are removed from rationing as are gold and silver evening slippers and riding boots.

Operators of certain types of recreational facilities, such as bowling alleys, may apply to their ration boards for certificates to purchase athletic shoes for loan or rental.

Sugar—Stamp No. 13 in Ration Book 1 good for five pounds through August 15.

Canning sugar—Stamps 15 and 16 in Ration Book 1 good for five pounds each through October 31. If more sugar is needed for canning, apply to local rationing boards. Maximum allotment for each member of the family is 25 pounds.

Tires—Inspection deadlines—C motorists, August 31 (third inspection); A motorists, September 30 (second inspection); B motorists, October 31 (third inspection). Trucks must have tires inspected every 5000 miles or every six months, whichever occurs first.

Intervening periods: C motorists, 45 days must intervene between inspections; B, 60 days; A, 90 days. Fees: Autos: 25 cents each, plus 50 cents for each tire dismounted. Trucks, 50 cents to $1 for each tire dismounted, depending on the size. No ration board permission needed for recapping passenger auto tires. Used tubes are not rationed and no certificate is needed.

RACING CAR EXPERT TEACHES SOLDIERS TO DRIVE ARMY JEEP

(International News Service)

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo., July 19.—Soldier students at Camp Carson are taught how to handle the army's jeep by a nationally known racing car driver, it was learned today.

Francis D. Chase of Minneapolis, Minn., who used to drive against Ralph De Palma and Barney Oldfield, has the title of "civilian automotive adviser" at the army camp. Chase who was fame driving cars through flaming walls and up steep inclines, said he teaches no jeep stunting, but his students are required to drive over a jeep obstacle course.

BRIEF NEWS OVER STATE

(International News Service)

CHESTER—When patrolmen saw Hurchel Maze Jr., 21, sauntering down the street with an open five-inch penknife in his hand, they arrested him for disorderly conduct. Maze told the court that he was cleaning his fingernails. The judge was unimpressed by the excuse, however, and fined him $10. When Maze protested, the court increased it to $25.

NORRISTOWN—Sgt. Turner M. Morehead wrote his parents that he received the Christmas packages they mailed him last October. They didn't arrive, however, until May 25. Sergeant Turner is stationed in India.

CARLISLE BARRACKS—Brig. Gen. E. G. Reinartz, commandant of the aviation medicine school at Randolph Field, Texas, told officers at the Carlisle medical school that more than 16,000 casualties were flown by airplane to base hospitals in the Tunisian campaign. Fatalities, he said, were no higher than 2 per cent of all admissions.

WAYNESBURG—Wilma M. Cumpston repeated her marriage vows to Liberty Barlow and became his sister-in-law. Her husband is Paul Barlow with the armed forces in Australia. The wedding was performed by proxy.

JOHNSTOWN—Ten-year-old Donald Redden, who was hit and slightly injured by a truck, thought he was escaping the worse of two evils, a very determined dog was chasing him when he ran into the oncoming vehicle.

HARRISBURG—Two soldiers capsized while canoeing on the Susquehanna river. To the amazement of spectators, they swam about with their overseas caps firmly in place and perfectly dry. "Good trick—if you can pull it," commented one. "If you can't you're all wet!"

PITTSBURGH—When William Boyd left the University of Pittsburgh to join the Army Air Corps he probably never dreamed he would return 26 years later, a colonel, from Hawaii. Boyd, a flight group commander at Hickam Field at the time of the attack on Pearl Harbor, recently returned for a visit for the first time in three years.

CARLISLE BARRACKS—Lieut. Charles E. Green is both doctor and clergyman. His professions go hand in hand. In a single day he performed a wedding, delivered a baby and preached at a funeral.

PITTSBURGH—A blank check found between stubs in the check book of Mrs. Gertrude K. Lare was worth $80,000. She had written her will on it.

Allied Military Government For Sicily Is AMGOT

First Proclamation Posted In Occupied Towns, Annuling Italian Crown, Party

By GRAHAM HOVEY (U. S. Staff Correspondent)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN NORTH AFRICA, July 19.—The Allied command on Saturday revealed a new military government for Sicily, first of its kind in history.

"Proclamation No. 1," posted in captured Sicilian cities, voided the authority of the Italian crown and annulled the Italian Fascist party and all discriminatory and racial laws.

The proclamation disclosed that the new government will be known as AMGOT—Allied military government in occupied territory—and will govern the island following its capitulation. The same procedure will be followed in all territory later captured.

The proclamation loomed today from every wall in the port town of Licata. Directed to the Sicilian population, it bears the signature of Gen. Sir Harold R. L. G. Alexander, who will act as military governor of Sicily.

On the authority of Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and British and American governments, the posters told the people that no harm would befall them. Allied armies sought only the armed enemy, the posters said, and personal and property rights will be respected.

Civil officials will be asked to continue in office and cooperate with the new government, the posters declared, but so far most of this work has fallen upon local British priests.

Key Fascist leaders will be jailed. Allied commanders added, Fascist political militia will be forbidden and youth organizations will be dissolved. As soon as possible a free press and free speech has been promised.

BED BUGS

Now that houses are so scarce, there is liable to be some overcrowding. There is also likely to be some trouble from bugs.

The bed bug is a dangerous pest. If bed bugs get into a house it is hard to get rid of them.

Soap and water for floors and wood work is pretty good treatment. All cracks and crevices should be sealed. Bedsteads should be scrubbed. Blue ointment is pretty good to smear in corners where bugs could hide.

If there are bugs in the other apartments in your building, it would be best for you to move. As fast as you eradicate your own bugs others will come.

All governments become unpopular. Ill fortune comes to all, and soon or late everybody blames the government.

Allied Leaflets On Italy Warn Of New Fascist Propaganda

(International News Service)

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, North Africa, July 19.—The Fascists themselves may arrange to have bombs dropped on Rome's cultural monuments or Vatican City in order to convince the Italians of Allied designs on the city's historical and religious works, the Italian capital's populace was warned today in leaflets dropped by Allied bombers.

The leaflet warned Rome's residents to beware of a move by Benito Mussolini's government or by the Germans to portray today's Allied attack as an attempt "to destroy those cultural monuments which are the glory not only of Rome, but of the civilized world."

"We have declared, and we repeat," the circular said, "that we shall be aiming at military objectives."

PLANE CRASH FATAL TO TWO

MERCER, Pa., July 19.—Robert Daugherty, 25, of Grove City, and Joseph Brown, 28, of Charleston, W. Va., were killed Saturday night when their two-seater plane crashed three miles west of nearby Cool Springs airport.

Daugherty, part owner of the plane, was found dead in the wreckage. Brown, airport instructor who had gone along as a passenger, died four hours later in a hospital.

RESIDENTS OF HILL DISTRICT ASSURED POLICE PROTECTION

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, July 19.—The citizens' committee of the Pittsburgh hill district received an answer today from Superintendent of Police Harvey J. Scott who said, contrary to the committee's charges, the hill district is the most strongly policed area in the city.

Scott, in a letter to Safety Director George E. A. Fairley, maintained that with all its special problems, the hill district has 72 assigned patrolmen out of the 589 available for all the police districts in the city.

"There is no wholesale prostitution in the hill district or anywhere else in the city," he added. "The police department is, and has been conducting a vigorous campaign against the social evil."

Italian Surrender Hinted If Allies Offer 'Guarantees'

(International News Service)

LONDON, July 19.—A Rome dispatch today to the Stockholm newspaper Dagens Nyheter, carried under the headline—"Italy Advertises For Peace Guarantees"—indicated Italy would quit the war if more explicit peace conditions were drawn up by the Allies and backed by "the proper guarantees."

The dispatch, passed by Italian censors, significantly was printed on the day Rome was bombed for the first time in World War II.

NEWS AND VIEWS AT CAPITAL

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, July 19.—As another presidential election approaches, Gov. Edward Martin continues to fire blistering broadsides at the domestic policies of the Roosevelt administration but never criticizes the conduct of the war. The governor has compiled the following statistics: $206,000,000 was expended to build cantonments for the 4,000,000 soldiers in World War I while housing for the first 1-2,000,000 soldiers in this war cost approximately $800,000,000; federal budget officials have estimated the national debt will be $300,000,000 at the end of the war as compared with only $27,000,000,000 at the end of the first World War; there are 200,000 federal employees in Pennsylvania or more than twice the number of all the employees of the state, counties, cities, boroughs and townships.

Secretary of the Treasury G. Harold Wagner has disclosed that the revenues from the state's parks and forest lands totaled $475,000 during the 1941-43 biennium. Wagner said timber sales amounted to $80,000; camp site leases, $68,000; housing rents in state parks, $39,000; costs assessed for extinguishing forest fires, $31,000; water permits $24,000; dams and encroachment fees, $15,000.

U. S. Sen. Joseph P. Guffey, enthusiastic supporter of President Roosevelt, has been reported to be dogging the footsteps of James A. Farley through the south as the former postmaster general taps political sentiment for the 1944 election. Pennsylvania's junior senator usually manages to be among the first to demand another term for Roosevelt and each year was no exception. It was believed Guffey was attempting to ferret out what southern leaders are telling Farley who broke with the president after years of association. Guffey's strong support of Roosevelt for a fourth term is not so strange, Democrats say, because the president's re-election would practically assure another term for him. Guffey's enemies claim he couldn't win if Roosevelt didn't run. He defeated Jay Cooke, the Republican candidate in 1940, by a margin of 176,876 votes at a time when the president toppled Wendell Willkie by a 281,187-vote margin.

A solution of the two-fisted lobbying tactics of local government officials for increased benefits during legislative session has been suggested by Harold F. Alderfer, secretary of the local government institute for Pennsylvania State College. He has recommended that the general assembly enact legislation transferring the power to fix salaries, procedure and other problems from the state to the local political sub-divisions. Any solution of local problems must be sought in the assembly and the hundreds of bills—some of them duplications—sponsored by assemblymen under pressure some time from local officials, jams the legislative docket. Alderfer said that the transfer would "relieve the legislature and implement local bodies with powers that they should, and once did, have."

A total of 89 foreign-language newspapers are published in New York City, in 27 different tongues.

FORMER PITTSBURGH MAYOR, McNAIR, IN COMMISSIONER RACE

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, July 19.—Former Mayor William M. McNair and Miss Inez B. Peel, former candidates for congressman-at-large, today were teamed up to oppose John J. Kane and George Rankin, Jr., in the Democratic primary for county commissioners.

McNair and Miss Peel, who will issue a joint statement later this week, are expected to head a ticket including A. Arthur Boscia for district attorney, Thomas A. Belenkas for clerk of the courts and Mario Bove, Maurice H. Bloom and George Harnic for Pittsburgh city council.

McKIBBIN WINS HONORS

Mr. and Mrs. E. Don McKibbin of Park avenue have received word from the University of Arizona located at Tucson, that their son Don has been selected on the dean's list of high scholarship students for the past year. Only 12 freshman students attained this honor. Don was graduated from the senior high school in the class of 1942.

In addition to being named on the dean's list, Don stood highest on the list. It has been learned, in a group of 902 freshman students.

Post-War Roads Being Planned

Secretary Shroyer Says Utilitarian Features Are Main Consideration

SIMPLE DESIGN ALSO FACTOR

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, July 19.—Secretary of Highways John U. Shroyer disclosed today that post-war roads are being designed with emphasis on utilitarian rather than monumental features and urged that "simplicity and sincerity" in all planning.
Shroyer explained to the annual convention of the State Association of County Commissioners at Pittsburgh that as an adjunct of Gov. Edward Martin's post-war planning commission, "our department is proceeding with the preparation of a balanced plan of highway design and development to meet the transportation needs of our nation, state and local communities."

Post-War Planning
He declared that "there is much talk throughout the country on post-war planning, and I would again urge that simplicity and sincerity be the governing factors in this projected enterprise to provide essential improvements and employment during the transition period from war to peace."
"In our highway planning we are not designing highways and bridges beyond the probable maximum traffic requirements and the possible finances. But we are completing adequate design for alignment, grade width and strength, with maximum safety, premised upon the best present and future traffic data available, and upon a financial basis which is practical and in accordance with the ability of our citizens to pay the bill."
"I would urge all responsible government officials to plan along these lines whether the public works involve highways, streets, sewers, reservoirs, public buildings, or any structure or type of convenience. Only by the application of these principles can we justify our positions."

Col. Drake Struck Oil 84 Years Ago Near Titusville

(Special To The News)
HARRISBURG, Pa., July 19.—Oil for the wheels of industry in today's war was given to the world 84 years ago next month when Colonel Edwin L. Drake struck oil at Titusville, Pa., in what proved to be the world's first producing well, according to the State Department of Commerce.

In 1859 the first yield from this well produced only about forty barrels of oil a day but opened the most important natural resource production in Pennsylvania, to follow that of iron and coal.

By 1865 Venango county, in which the well was located, shipped 13,000 barrels per day.
Today, Pennsylvania crude oil, considered by many scientists to be the best lubricant ever found, is lubricating the machines of the Allied Nations all over the world—machines on the ground, in the air and on the sea.

Alleged Fraud On Government Pencil Contract Revealed

Cited As Argument To Retain Law Permitting Citizens To Bring War Fraud Suits

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, July 19.—Sen. William Langer (R) N. D., said he is "reliably informed" that a cost-plus army contractor bought 1,000,000 pencils at 9 cents each with a retail value of two for five cents.
The incident, which he said was reported to have occurred at the Sunflower Ordnance Plant, Kansas, was cited by Langer as an argument against repeal of the law permitting citizens to bring war fraud suits.
"The legislation, which the department of justice seeks would repeal a law enacted during the Civil War to protect the government against frauds," said Langer.
"It is needed during the present war. The bill will be the first order of business when the Senate meets, and we are organizing a fight to prevent the repeal."

Langer said that much evidence of extravagance in expenditures on army projects being built on a cost plus fixed fee basis has been uncovered.

The Sunflower plant, as yet unfinished, was originally planned to cost $56,000,000 but as a result of waste and revision of plans the cost now is expanded to an estimated $129,000,000, he said.

Langer said he would present to the Senate evidence that doors were bought for $40 and installed at the plant at a cost of $10.50 to the government, that the labor cost on three civilian conservation corps type buildings brought from Iowa was $35,000 when new ones could have been built for $15,000, and that hundreds of workmen have been "hidden out" at the plant.

FOOD REACHES MARTINIQUE

FORT-DE-FRANCE, Martique, July 19.—Tuthustastic crowds swarmed to the quayside today when the first food ship to reach Martinique in many months docked her unloading of 5,000,000 pounds of staples and clothing.
The supplies will be distributed through local rationing organizations.

COAL CONTRACT NEAR, IS REPORT

Agreement Said To Be Possible
On Compromise Basis
On Pay Rates

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, July 19.—A compromise contract embodying the principle of portal-to-portal pay has been proffered by the Appalachian region coal operators and will be considered today at a meeting of the U.M.W. policy committee in Washington, according to strong reports circulating Western Pennsylvania's bituminous fields.

The latest wage scale offer would strike a balance between the $1.50-a-day travel time demanded by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, and the War Labor Board's refusal to grant any compensation whatever for underground travel.

Speculation immediately arose that should such a compromise proposal be accepted by the union—and reports here indicate the operators are prepared to give as much as a $1-a-day increase—the WLB would be placed in the unenviable position of either denying or approving a wage adjustment which the industry itself was ready to grant.

Talk of a settlement in the acrimonious five-months mine controversy was heightened when union leaders suddenly embarked late last night for Washington. Among those heading for the capital in response to an urgent summons from Lewis were John P. Busarello, president of U.M.W. District 5; William Hynes, head of District 4; Joseph Yablonski, John O'Leary and several other international union executives.

HURT IN CRASH

Buzzers Tune Up For Annual Meet

Barber Shop Quartet Melody
Maulers Plan Annual Songfest For August 28

Once a year the old barber shop chords take a terrific beating in Lawrence County. The "Buzzers," an organization of men who at one time or another have been guilty of harmonizing those minor strains together and on Sunday afternoon the committee met at the Calazza cottage on the Neshannock Creek to make plans.

Arch Cubbison is the major chord of the minor chord melodists and announced that this year the songfest would be held on Sunday afternoon and evening, August 28th. Jack Pitzer is assisting in arranging the lunch and the melodies.

Guests from as far as Detroit have promised to be present and this year's reunion should be a dandy.

Americans Take Caltigirone In Attack At Dawn

Take Up Precarious Position In Middle Of German Base, Blast To Victory

By CLARK LEE
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

WITH THE U. S. FORCES ON THE CALTIGIRONE FRONT, Sicily, July 16—(Delayed)—Civilians who had practically nothing to eat themselves, offered us food and cheered us lustily as we entered Caltigirone after driving enemy forces out in a surprise attack at dawn.

During the early morning assault a small American unit's light artillery at point blank range knocked out five Nazi tanks, two armored cars and a German plane in one of the most unusual and dramatic fights of this campaign.

The Americans took up a precarious position overlooking Caltigirone at four a. m., undetected by the enemy, after a night-long march from the Biscari airport. En route they had encountered a patrol of 30 enemy troops, led by German officers, and killed or captured them all before they could sound a warning.

When Lieut. Col. Clarence B. Cochran, of Okema, Okla., learned the Americans had taken up their positions squarely in the middle of a German tank park and munitions dump, he immediately ordered guns brought up and posted riflemen behind a stone wall only 50 yards from a farmhouse in which the Germans had set up their headquarters.

Before the enemy "as aware of the Americans' presence, Lieut. Rufford Wilson and a group of soldiers literally carried a 37-MM gun weighing 900 pounds to a position across the road from the farmhouse.

Just before dawn, Lieut. Walter A. Ufer, crouching in the field grass, spotted a German Mark IV tank on a slope only 200 yards from Wilson's gun. Wilson fired, but his first shot missed and the tank swung its 75 around at Wilson. For a few brief seconds the Americans and the Germans were staring down the barrels of each other's guns.

"Then we fired simultaneously," Wilson recounted. "There was a terrific flash and explosion half way between us. The only way I can explain it is that the two shells must have collided in midair. We beat the Heines to the second shot, which disabled their tank as they tried to run away."

While this was going on, Lieut. Jonathan Baker, of New Brunswick, N. J., got three mortars into action. They knocked out a second enemy tank and then hit a gasoline dump in the woods which exploded several hundred stacked 88 mm shells.

During the three-hour fight that followed the Nazis counter-attacked twice, their tanks followed by infantry, but were repulsed each time in a matter of minutes by the Americans' mortars, one of which killed an enemy officer in a tank at 400 yards.

The retreat of the Germans left the road to Caltigirone open. As we entered the town we found eight abandoned Italian tankettes.

Ingham Candidate For Commissioner

Announces Candidacy For Republican Nomination For County Commissioner

M. M. INGHAM

Six years ago I announced my candidacy for Sheriff of Lawrence County, and I was elected to that office for the following four years. I point with pride to these four years, and to the record which I established as your Sheriff.

I am now announcing myself as a candidate for the Republican nomination for County Commissioner of Lawrence County. My educational background at New Castle High School, Trinity Hall Military Academy, and Washington and Jefferson College, which coupled with experience gained as an employee of the Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation, as a business associate of my father's, as a Sheriff of Lawrence County, and as a Farmer, causes me to feel that I am well qualified to serve the citizens as County Commissioner.

While I have always been a Republican, yet I have avoided any connection with any clique or faction within the party. It is my opinion that post war planning should be started at once, designed to ease the change from the life of a soldier to that of a civilian. This long term planning should also coincide with other agencies of our County, so that in the future Lawrence County will still be a fine place in which to live and work.

I will make no pre-election promises save one, which is that if I am nominated and elected your County Commissioner, I will at all times conduct the affairs of the County with the strictest economy consistent with good business, and IF ELECTED, my administration will be a fair, square and honest deal to all the people of Lawrence County.

Church Sodality Picnic Enjoyed

Approximately 50 girls of the Sodality of Our Lady of St. Vitus church gathered at the All American beach Sunday afternoon for their annual outing event in the form of a basket picnic.

Activities got underway at 1:30 o'clock, the various pastimes being roller skating and dancing. Games were in charge of Lena Mastrangelo, and prizes were awarded to Frances Corio, Rose Chill and Gloria Cioffi.

A delicious picnic lunch was served at an appropriate hour.

On August 1 the group will receive holy communion in a body in St. Vitus church. August 5 is the date for the next regular meeting.

ST. MARY'S SODALITY

Members of the St. Mary's Sodality will meet on the North street bridge Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock and will hike out to All American beach, where they will join other Sodalities at the picnic of the Lawrence County Union of Sodalities.

Bessemer Residents Give Total Of 466 Pints To Blood Bank

Mrs. Wayne Davis, Chairman, Expresses Thanks For Cooperation And Service

(Special To The News)

BESSEMER, July 19.—The Cross Mobile unit set up in the Bessemer high school Thursday, Friday and Saturday of last week reports that 466 persons donated a pint of blood each to the Red Cross' store of blood plasma to save the lives of men wounded in action. Only 32 persons were rejected. Mrs. Wayne Davis, chairman of the local Red Cross Blood Donor Service committee, expresses thanks and appreciation to all the workers and to every one who helped to make the blood donor service a success in Bessemer.

The entire committee expresses appreciation for the service and cooperation received from the Lawrence county chapter of the Red Cross headquarters, and to the motor corps and nurses aides. The motor corps, which was in attendance during the stay of the blood donor mobile unit in New Castle and New Wilmington, as well as Bessemer, transported in the station wagon anyone who needed to be taken home.

Additional persons who worked at the Bessemer high school were: Mrs. Dorothy Stanley, Mrs. H. Hanson, Mrs. Beth Martin, Mrs. Menle D. Arment, Mrs. Emma Carson, Mrs. Sally Fullerton, Mrs. Jennie Reuhle and Mrs. Bertha Smith, Welfare nurse of the Hillsville quarries.

Archie Shoup, chief of police, was on duty during the mobile unit's visit.

Three Burned To Death After Bus Plunges Off Road

Troop-Laden Bus Crashes And Burns Near Harrisburg En Route To Indiantown Gap

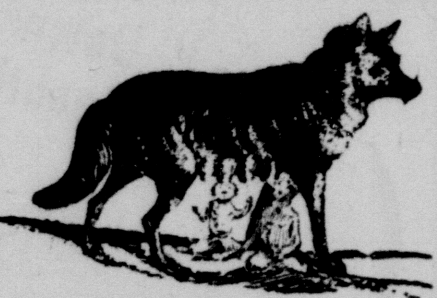

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, July 19.—Military and civilian officials today were investigating the deaths of three persons in the cab of a troop-laden bus that plunged from the highway near Harrisburg and caught fire.

The victims were identified as Roy Probst, the driver; his wife, and John Mannix, the conductor, all of Harrisburg. Twenty-one passengers were bruised and shaken when the bus careened down a 10-foot embankment, but none sustained serious injuries.

The passengers—soldiers and nurses returning to the Indiantown Gap military reservation after a week-end leave and furloughs, left Harrisburg at 10:30 p. m. last night. As the bus approached Beaver Creek hill it left the two-lane highway in a 10-foot plunge and crashed at the side of the road, ripping the gasoline tank. Flames enveloped the cab of the bus, trapping the three persons in the cab.

AROUND CITY HALL

Council today received from the GNCA an agreement which Mayor Charles B. Mayne was authorized to sign whereby the city will acquire for $100, the bag-house, an iron and steel building of the Lehigh Portland Cement company. The building will be moved and made available for use of the streets department.

When council convened Monday in city hall there were no bids offered for the painting of the Mahoning avenue viaduct. Council advertised recently for the bids.

Council today was requested by attorneys for the Jameson Memorial hospital to exonerate the property of the late Mrs. Jessie A. Jameson, North Jefferson street and Lincoln avenue which has been given to the hospital for a student nurses home. The request was referred to the city assessor and legal department.

Council convened Monday in the municipal building and heard read a petition from property-owners in Williams street between Lathrop and Lutton street, requesting that section be paved with concrete. It was decided to investigate the feasibility but it was pointed out that an improvement of this character more than 1,000 feet in length is prohibited by federal regulations.

"Responsibilities of Citizenship" will be discussed at the July 21 meeting of the Kiwanis club at 12:15 noon in The Castleton. Dr. Bennett needs no introduction to Kiwanis members as he is well known for his excellent talks. On Wednesday we hope to greet several visitors, some old citizens of New Castle and others who are newcomers. ELSIE.

Delegates From Sodalities Attend Week Of Summer School Of Catholic Action

Sessions of the Summer School of Catholic Action, held in the William Penn hotel, this past week, came to a close last Saturday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock. This was the third session, of the Summer school weeks to be held in the country.

Many delegates from the different states attended the sessions, which were in charge of Rev. Fr. Daniel A. Lord, S. J., founder and director of the SSCA.

Mass was celebrated every morning at 8:30 o'clock in the ballroom of the hotel, and on Saturday morning, high mass in the Greek Rite was celebrated at 8 o'clock, with Holy Communion being distributed in both species. Monsignor Michaylo of St. John's Cathedral, Homestead was the celebrant.

Attending the sessions from here were: Rev. Fr. Leo S. Watterson, director of the Lawrence County Union of Sodalities; Rev. Fr. Albert M. Inteso, of St. Vitus Sodality; Rev. Fr. Joseph O. Pernatozzi, of Ellwood City; and Seminarian Francis Ginocchi.

Delegates attending for the week were: Miss Frances T. Corio, president of the Lawrence County Union of Sodalities; Angelina Venditto of St. Vitus Sodality; Elizabeth Bshero, of St. John the Baptist Sodality.

Sisters attending the sessions were: Sister M. Agatha, and Sister M. Edna of the New Castle Hospital; and Sister M. Henrietta, of St. Vitus church.

Delegates attending one-day sessions were: Margaret Valley, Dorothea Donegan and Marie Hanlon of St. Mary's church; Mary Chill, Eva Malley, Margaret Naples, Olga Dell and Helen Venditto, of St. Vitus church; Della Appolino and Joan Cordone, of the New Castle Hospital School of Nursing; Rita Metz, of St. Joseph's church; Rose and Nancy Bshero and Ann Gabriel of St. John the Baptist church.

Get Auto Use Stamp Or Face Penalty Now

WASHINGTON, July 19.—The Bureau of Internal Revenue does not want to "get tough" about the unpopular $5 auto use tax stamp, but officials warned today that violators of the law are subject to fines up to $50.

The bureau will mail letters soon to all district collectors advising them to follow enforcement procedure used last year. Violators are detected by deputies who may either warn the driver to buy the stamp, tell him to report to the collector's office or leave a summons.

If the violator buys the stamp, no action is taken—but when persons refuse or show any "recalcitrant" attitude, the collector must cite the case to the U. S. Attorney for action in federal court.

MISSING LIEUTENANT'S FIANCEE JOINS WAVES

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, July 19.—During the lulls between the bitter sea fighting around Guadalcanal, Lieutenant I. E. Kimmelman, USNR, scribbled some advice to his fiancée back home.

"Personally, I think it's a good idea for women to relieve men ashore for combat duty," he wrote. And in another letter: "Hon, why don't you try for the WAVES?"

The 27-year-old Philadelphia lieutenant has been missing since his destroyer was sunk six months ago. But today, his fiancée, Miss Sophia Goldstein, has stepped up to take his place by joining the WAVES during the current recruiting campaign and freeing a man for sea duty.

NEW YORK PATROLMEN SOLVE FAMILY CRISIS

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, July 19.—It's all in the day's work for New York patrolmen.

Having completed their tour of duty, two policemen—Francis Cook and Howard Hegerick—were approached by John Hartman, 25, who announced excitedly:

"I got two kids at home crying for their breakfast. Helen, my wife, is having a baby in the bedroom, and I got a defense job that I got to get to."

The officers went home with Hartman, got the children's breakfast ready, delivered the 7½ pound baby boy, and sent the father on his way to work.

WAVE WEEK

(JULY 19th THROUGH JULY 24th)

The WAVES is an organization of women whose job is to replace Navy men at shore stations.

As a member of the WAVES you can wear the same Navy blue, win the same ratings and earn the same pay as America's finest fighting men.

And you'll hold the same shore jobs that are now filled by men. At Navy bases throughout the continental United States WAVES do all types of office work. They also are needed to fill jobs in radio, communications, storekeeping. Some are for important posts in mechanics and aviation ground work—as machinists, for example, or as operators of the Link Trainer, that amazing device which teaches future Navy pilots the principles of flying. Other women are needed for various special or technical positions.

Whatever your work, wherever you go, you can be sure that you are performing a very real, very vital service for your country. It won't be any picnic. It's not a part-time "glamour" job—and it's not meant to be. You are as much a member of the service as any man with the fleet. It's full-time work. It will be hard work. But as you are the sort of woman who loves America and honors the brave men fighting to keep it free, it's work you'll be proud to do.

Never in history have American women been offered such a chance to serve their country. Never has there been such an urgent need for their service. Join the WAVES now; get full information by personal call today!

Any Questions About the WAVES?

You'll Find the Answers Here

|--|---|
| 1 Q. As a WAVE will I be expected to serve overseas? A. The law passed by Congress limits your service to the continental limits of the United States. 2 Q. What is the term of enlistment? A. For the duration of the war. You will be discharged within six months after the war ends. 3 Q. When does my pay begin? A. The day you report to training school. 4 Q. If I have no special training, will I be eligible? A. Yes. In addition to women with specialized training, the WAVES definitely want women of high caliber but no special training. 5 Q. Do I pay my own way to training school? A. No. Your transportation is paid by the Navy. 6 Q. How long will my training period be? A. The training period will average about four months. | 7 Q. When do I get my uniform? A. After you arrive at training school. However you should bring enough civilian clothing for a week or two. 8 Q. Will there be religious services? A. Yes. Each training school will make appropriate arrangements. 9 Q. Can an enlisted woman ever work up to a commission? A. Yes. Your application will be judged on demonstrated capacity and ability. 10 Q. What is the difference between the uniform of an enlisted woman and that of an Officer? A. Little difference—except for hat, gold buttons instead of blue. Officer stripes on sleeve and shirts. Officers wear white shirts for dress, blue for work. Enlisted women wear reserve blue or dark blue shirts. 11 Q. Can an enlisted woman request training in a particular field—for instance, radio—even if she has had no previous training in that field? A. Yes. But it cannot be guaranteed that the request will be granted. 12 Q. If I am under 21 and my parents consent, can I enlist? A. You may enlist if you are over 20 or have not reached your 36th birthday. |

Yanks Showing Return Of Old-Time Pennant Stride

Eight Straight Wins Is Record

Rookie Infielder Gives Punch To Take Two Games On Sunday

INDIANS SCALP BROWNS TWICE

By JOHN CASHMAN
(International News Service Staff Writer)
NEW YORK, July 19.—Less than two months ago, the New York Yankees were regarded with mild derision as a club destined for the scrap pile. After losing the American League lead on their first Western swing, the worst in New York's history since 1908, the rest of the circuit rubbed hands and smiled slyly over what looked like a soft touch in the climb toward the pennant.

Today, the Yankees' rivals are a little less than gleeful. Instead, they are clambering all over each other in a pennant race that is still fairly tight, but the Yankees are increasing the length of their strides. Yesterday extended their winning streak to eight straight, the 12th victory in 13 starts, by sweeping both ends of a doubleheader with the Philadelphia Athletics, 7 to 2 and 4 to 3, thereby getting a firm grip on the lead.

Burst Of Batting Power
A burst of batting power by rookie infielder Bill Johnson turned the trick. Johnson batted in four runs in the opener, three on a homer, to give Ernie Bonham his ninth victory. Then, in the nightcap, Johnson singled in the tying run in the ninth with two out, the Yankees then going on to win in the tenth.

The Yankee triumph must have been pretty discouraging to the Washington Senators, who took both ends of a twin bill from the Sox, 9 to 2 and 5 to 4, but could not whitewash their games behind column in second place. George Case batted in four runs in the opener, and in the nightcap, made a brilliant catch of Bobby Doerr's liner in the seventh that highlighted the game.

The Chicago White Sox took a 12 to 4 thrashing from the Detroit Tigers in the first game of a doubleheader, but the Sox clawed back in the second, 4 to 1. Three Sox twirlers have 18 hits in the opener.

Indians Scalp Browns
The Cleveland Indians scalped the St. Louis Browns in both ends of a twin bill, 4 to 3 and 10 to 7. Bobo Newsom, pitching his first game for the Browns since being exiled there by the Brooklyn Dodgers, was jeked out in the third inning of the nightcap, a frame that saw seven Cleveland runs.

The longest game in the history of baseball started yesterday, the final results of which will not be known until September 13. This was the Dodgers-Boston Braves nightcap of a doubleheader. After the Dodgers to the first game, 8 to 5 in 11 innings, the second game was halted because of curfew, and under the new "suspension" rules will be played off September 13 from that point at which it was stopped. The clubs are tied up in this contest, 4 to 4.

Suspended Game
Another such suspended game occurred in the nightcap of the St. Louis Cardinals-Pittsburgh Pirates doubleheader, after the Cards took the opener, 7 to 4. This game will be resumed on September 1. Mort Cooper chalked up his 12th triumph in the opener, although the Pirates threatened to multiply several times. The nightcap was halted at the end of the seventh inning with the Cards leading, 6 to 5.

The New York Giants started a drive to release themselves from the National League cellar by whipping the Philadelphia Phillies in both ends of a doubleheader, 10 to 6 and 3 to 2. The Giants blasted out 19 hits in the curtain raiser, and in the afterpiece Ken Kase, bested Anton Karl in a hurling duel.

The Chicago Cubs were moved that much farther away from the cellar when they won both halves of a twin bill from the Cincinnati Reds, 3 to 1 and 7 to 0. Claude Passeau yielded 8 hits for the twirling victory while Johnny Vandermer, who was tabbed for the loss, allowed only seven bingles. The Cubs then went on to pound Bucky Walters and Clyde Shoun for 14 hits.

PRINCETON COACH
Bill Clarke was a member of the famous Baltimore Orioles in the days of John McGraw. He now coaches at Princeton and this year one of his players was Jack Dunn III, who some day will own and operate the Orioles.

WEEK END SPORTS

PITTSBURGH—John Woudenberg, giant Pittsburgh Steelers tackle the past three seasons, has been commissioned an ensign and ordered to report to the Navy's flight school at Chapel Hill, N. C., August 5.

Woudenberg played for Denver university before being drafted by the Chicago Bears in 1939.

DETROIT—Owner Fred Mandel, Jr., rounded out an all-Notre Dame coaching staff for the Detroit Lions today by naming Joe Bach, one of the "Seven Mules" of Knute Rockne's famous "Four Horsemen" team of 1924, as line coach of the National Football league team.

PITTSBURGH—Eugene (Home-sick) Huck, the Pirate's disappearing shortstop, was indefinitely suspended without pay today when he failed to report for the doubleheader with the St. Louis Cardinals.

ST. LOUIS—Radio Announcer Jerome (Dizzy) Dean, former pitching ace of the St. Louis Cardinals and the Chicago Cubs, will leave tonight for Lancaster, Tex., where he will take a physical examination to determine his acceptability to the armed forces.

SAN FRANCISCO—Gunder Haegg, of Sweden, world's greatest long distance foot racer, failed in his attempt Sunday to run the fastest mile in history, but ably demonstrated to 15,000 spectators at Kezar Stadium why he holds most of the records from 1,500 meters to 5,000 meters.

Haegg clicked off four laps in four minutes 12.3-0 seconds, showing the way to America's 1,500-meter champion, Gil Dodds, of Boston, and winning as he pleased.

CAPE MAY, N. J.—Lieut. Cmdr. J. B. (Jack) Sutherland, USNR, former football coach at University of Pittsburgh, has taken over duties as assistant morale officer at the naval base here, the fourth naval district announced.

WEST MIDDLESEX, Pa.—Dickson Stewart, of Brookfield township, farmer coach at Marienville, has been named basketball coach at West Middlesex high school. He succeeds William Williams, who goes to Sharon faculty. Mr. Stewart, a graduate of Thiel college, is a brother of Arthur Stewart, principal at Greenville high school.

NEW YORK—Vernon (Lefty) Gomez, former Yankee pitcher recently released by the Washington Senators, has accepted a job with Carl L. Norden, Inc., makers of the Norden bombsight.

PHILADELPHIA—Coach George Munger will open his sixth year of football at the University of Pennsylvania Thursday, first day of summer practice. He will have a quantity of material, but most of it will be untried and recruited from the ranks of the Navy V-5 and V-12 units at the university.

REAL VET
Tom Connolly, American league chief of umpires, has been in the league since its start. Bill Klem, holding the same position in the National, started in 1905.

NOW CATCHING
Otto Denning played first base at Cleveland this year, but now he's a catcher.

Twenty-seven days of racing at Jamaica increased New York's revenue over last year by $750,000.

Pitchers Wild, Hit Freely; Frigone Hits Home Run
Loyal Order of Moose defeated the Shenango Pottery 14 to 10 Sunday in a free-hitting game on Lee avenue field that while not marked by errors was by free tips, Campbell having issued eight to Lodi's four. The Moose hit at opportune times and led throughout the game. Frigone hit a home run. In the opening inning the Moose scored five times and the Pottery two. The Moose annexed another pair in the second and in the fifth frame added three more to make a total of 10. The Pottery put on a hitting spree and scored five times. The Moose scored four more runs in the sixth and seventh and a rally by the Pottery in their half of the seventh was cut short after three runs.

All-American Open Under Way

Greatest Golf Spectacle Of Year Opens In Chicago Today

WOMEN'S TOURNAMENT ALSO FEATURES

(International News Service)
CHICAGO, July 19.—The curtain rang up today on the greatest golf spectacle of the year, and probably for the duration, a three-in-one extravaganza combining the $10,750 All-American Open, the All-American Amateur and the All-American Women's Open Tournament.

The seven-day show winds up next Sunday with the finals in the All-American Open and the women's event.

The Amateurs set out this morning on the first 18-hole medal play qualifying round at the beautiful Tam O'Shanter club, which is sponsoring the pretentious triple-header tournament.

A difficult qualifying requirement for the early starters was piling out of bed around dawn in order to be on hand when the first batch of players teed off at seven a. m. Some of the late starters probably will be still at it when darkness falls tonight.

261 Entered
The Amateurs, of whom there were 261 entered, will play their second 18-hole qualifying round tomorrow. The women also will play their 18-hole qualifying round.

Out of the 36-hole Amateur qualifying play will come the 64 low scorers who will go to work against each other with a pair of 18-hole matches Wednesday, followed by another pair of the same Thursday. The semi-finalists will go 36 holes Friday and the finalists another 36 holes Saturday.

While all this is going on, the 155 professionals, except those exempted by their past performances, will take part in a special 18-hole qualifying round Wednesday to determine the remaining places in the open field not taken by the exempt professionals and the 64 amateur qualifiers.

These amateurs can take part in the open tournament, the losers in Wednesday's match play by playing a regular medal play round, and the survivors of Thursday's amateur play by playing out one of their match play rounds for their record in the first round of the Open. It is all very complicated.

Women in Tourney
The 29 or more women will be busy off and on. Those who survive tomorrow's qualifying round will play 18 holes Thursday and Saturday, 18 holes each Friday and Saturday, and the finals Sunday, also 18 holes. Among the favorites in the amateur ranks were Wilford Wehrle, of Racine, Wis.; Art Doering, of Tam O'Shanter; Gus Moreland, of Peoria, Ill.; Steve Kovach, of Pittsburgh, and Dale Morey, of Martinsdale, Ind., newly crowned Hoosier State champion.

Wehrle was runner-up last year to Lieut. Bud Ward, of the Army Air Force, winner of the 1942 All-American Amateur title. Ward will not defend a title this year.

Sgt. Joe Louis, world heavyweight boxing champion, was one of the entrants in the amateur event. He was scheduled to start play at 2:24 this afternoon.

A galaxy of professional stars was entered for the open event, including the late Byron Nelson, winner of the first two All-American Opens in 1941 and 1942. Nelson was expected to arrive Wednesday.

Cincy Is Noted For Its Hurlers

Ohioans Come Up With Find Every Year, Baseball Records Reveal
(International News Service)
CINCINNATI—An unusual custom has prevailed with the Cincinnati Reds since Bill McKechnie took charge of them in 1935. Each season they have uncovered a winning pitcher who, in the spring of that year, was not counted on as a potentially big winner.

They started with Johnny Vandermeer who was the sensation of 1936, during which year he pitched two successive no-hit games. Johnny, in the previous season, 1937, won five and lost 11 for Syracuse.

Thompson Example
In 1939 the Reds had a boy in their training camp fresh from the Columbia of the South Atlantic league. Gene Thompson was his name. Nobody counted on him, but he developed into the late season sensation and was a big help in the Reds' pennant campaign.

During the winter of 1939-40, the Reds purchased the contract of Jim Turner from Boston. Turner won four and lost 11 for the Braves in 1939. Well, Jim won 14 and lost seven and finished with an earned run average of 2.39 per nine innings.

Riddle Find
The following year, 1941, saw Elmer Riddle develop from a one-game winner in 1940 to the league's leading hurler. He won 19 and lost four, including eleven consecutive victories and, in addition to topping the circuit in the win and lost percentages, he also led in the earned runs rankings with a 2.24 average.

WAR CASUALTIES
Three former Illinois football stars, who were on the same team, have lost their lives in war—Lieutenant Paul Milosovich, Ralph Hathaway and Bob Ingalls.

ARM TOO SHORT
Whitney Kurowski, Cardinal star, was rejected by the Army because of an old arm injury. His right arm is two inches short.

JIMMY HAGAN STILL ON JOB WITH PHILLIES

Hired As Clerk In Office 40 Years Ago; Now Road Secretary

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, July 19.—Forty years ago Jimmy Hagan, dean of the National League's "front office men," was hired as a clerk in the downtown offices of the Philadelphia Phillies.

Today Jimmy Hagan is the Phillies road secretary, and through those 40 years he's tackled every job that has to be done around a ball club.

Sees Championship
There's only one other baseball executive—Manager Connie Mack of the Philadelphia Athletics—who has served the same major league club continuously through 40 seasons. Jimmy was recently honored by "his" club for his faith, loyalty and service. He is confident that "the day is not far off when the Phillies uniforms will bear the words 'World Champions'."

Jimmy Hagan has been office boy, receptionist, messenger, watchman at old Baker Bowl, ticket seller, usher, press gate guardian, and for the past 15 years road secretary.

Happiest In 1915
"I've served under nine presidents," he recalls. His happiest moment, he says, came in 1915 when the Phillies played in their only World Series and "I had the honor of escorting President Woodrow Wilson to his seat."

Detroit Dropping Football For War

(International News Service)
DETROIT, July 19.—Another wartime sports casualty was revealed today as the University of Detroit decided to drop football for the duration.

"Lack of manpower" was the reason for the decision, said Lloyd Brazil, athletic director, in making the announcement yesterday.

STREAK STOPPED
When Jack Graham, of Montreal, was called to the colors he had 14 home runs to his credit and had batted in 39 runs.

MAY BE REJECTED
Eddie Killeman, Baltimore's young pitching star, has car drum perforations, and may be rejected for service.

Proposes Army And Navy Game For Bond Sales

Senator Sees Chance For Gigantic Bond Sales Project In Game

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, July 19.—Sen. James M. Mead (D-N.Y.), today proposed that the Army-Navy football game be played in a big city and turned into a gigantic war bond sales and morale building spectacle.

In letters to the War and Navy department Mead strongly urged that the game be played. He said that great crowds could be obtained in New York, Philadelphia or Chicago.

"The game could be played at a time when there would be the least interference with transportation," he said. "Receipts would amount to $500,000, including radio broadcasting rights, which could be divided among the West Point and Annapolis Academies or could be given to the Red Cross or Army-Navy Relief."

Could Be Short-Waved
"It could be short-waved to our forces in all parts of the world. A huge radio audience could hear stories of how our admirals and generals profited by the stamina, resourcefulness and courage which the sport develops."

He suggested that purchase of a war bond be required in addition to the purchase of a ticket. War bonds also could be sold during the game, he added.

Army-Navy football games have commanded crowds of over 100,000 in Philadelphia. The one game played in Chicago attracted a bigger crowd. Mead said that the Yankee Stadium in New York could be so arranged that a tremendous crowd would be obtained here. He added that, because of New York's subway system there would be less interference with normal transportation in New York than in any other city.

Beau Jack Is Choice To Win Tonight's Bout

(International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, July 19.—Battling Beau Jack, former lightweight champion, today was a 12-5 choice to whip Philadelphia's Johnny Hutchinson in the 10-round feature bout at Shibe Park tonight.

The former Augusta, Ga., shoe-shine boy, younger and four pounds heavier than his opponent, can skyrocket back to the top of the heap by a decisive victory or a knockout. The Beau has won one bout—stopping Maxie Starr in six rounds—since he was dethroned by Bob Montgomery.

Clashing in the 10-round semi-windup will be two of the game's outstanding middleweights, Jose Basora and Cocos Kid, both of Puerto Rico. Basora is picked for his youth and probable hitting edge.

Fannins Defeat Cozy Corner Team

In a league contest on George Washington field Friday evening the East Side Fannins defeated Cozy Corners by a score of 11-2, with Zedick holding the North Hill team to two hits.

Jenkins had a homer and Park and Church hit doubles for the Fannins.

Score by innings:
Fannins 303 400 1-11 8 2
Cozy Corners 010 100 0-2 2 2
Batteries: Fannins, Zedick and Webber; Cozy Corners, Shriver and Waskin. Umpires, Riley and Jolly.

Conflicting Orders Of Outside 'Bosses' Cools Zeal Of OCD

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, July 19.—Conflicting orders from outside "bosses" have caused confusion and subsequent slackened interest in civilian defense activities, Ross L. Leffer, chairman of the Allegheny County Council of Defense, declared today as he announced new measures designed to revitalize the OCD here.

Repeating his warning against the dangers of an enemy air attack, Leffer ordered OCD personnel to disregard orders and directives from agencies and officials outside the county council, and to operate solely through communications issued by local OCD headquarters.

The defense chairman revealed at the same time that a number of additional air raid defense control centers are to be established shortly in the Pittsburgh district.

Workers To Occupy Publicly Financed Homes In Pittsburgh

(International News Service)
PITTSBURGH, July 19.—More than 3,000 publicly-financed homes are scheduled for occupancy by war workers in the Pittsburgh area by late fall, regional director for the Federal Housing Authority, John Taylor Egan said today.

Approximately 18,000 homes are scheduled for completion in industrial centers of New York, New Jersey and Pennsylvania also by late fall, Egan said. This total includes 9,539 for Pennsylvania.

The greater part of this regional program is being carried on in the areas surrounding Pittsburgh, Buffalo and Philadelphia, where thousands of war workers have moved in recent months. Most of the homes are of temporary construction and will be removed after the war, Egan announced.

WANT STATE TO PAVE ROAD

SHARON, Pa., July 19.—Traffic over Sharon-Greenville highway, which leads past Camp Shenango, has been slowed down to a record low speed, because of the bad condition of the road surface.

It is the meantime, county officials have again appealed for action to Pennsylvania Highway Department, which in turn has asked federal aid in rebuilding the highway. The road was badly damaged by the heavy traffic of trucks hauling slag to the new TNT plant near Meadville and the army camp.

For several months the highway department has had a maintenance crew on the seven-mile section of highway to keep army camp traffic on the move.

The state highway department has several plans for the project. It is the state's most favored relocation of the highway so as to eliminate many dangerous curves.

WILL SURVEY CIVILIAN NEEDS

Byrnes Starts Inquiry To Avoid
Breakdowns On Home
Front

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, July 19.—War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes, it was learned on high authority today, has ordered a long-range study of over-all military and civilian requirements in an effort to avoid breakdowns on the home front.

Baruch, whose study of the rubber crisis for President Roosevelt resulted in the creation of an independent rubber administration with William M. Jeffers as its head, has indicated his availability for similar tasks. When Byrnes was named to head the office of war mobilization, he publicly announced that he intended to make greater use of Baruch in the capacity of unofficial adviser.

Byrnes' decision to probe military and civilian needs was viewed as a further indication that the war mobilizer is seeking to establish a long-range pattern for the American economy, comparable to over-all strategy formulated to carry on the war on the battle fronts.

Purpose of the study, according to informed sources, is to weigh military and civilian needs in the light of existing supplies of metals and materials, and with consideration to production facilities.

CHIEFS OF POLICE OF STATE TO HEAR MARTIN, GEN. DRUM

(International News Service)
HARRISBURG, July 19.—The Pennsylvania chiefs of police opened a two-day conference today at Harrisburg and slated Gov. Edward Martin and Lt. Gen. Hugh A. Drum, commandant of the First Army and the Eastern Defense Command, to address the delegates.

Other speakers scheduled to address the conference were Lt. Col. C. M. Wilhelm, commissioner of the Pennsylvania State Police; Dr. Ralph C. Hutchison, director of the state defense council; Howard Sutton, superintendent of Philadelphia police; and Edward J. Kelly, secretary of the International Police Chiefs' Association.

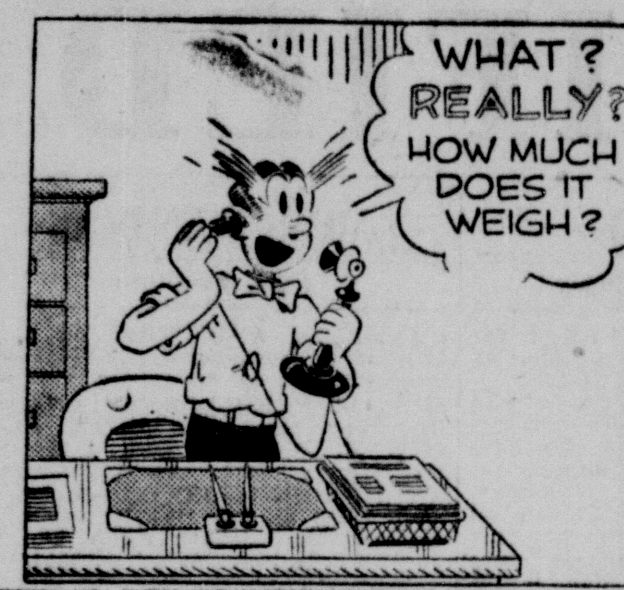

HOME ENTERED

Police received a report yesterday that the Kovach residence, Lathrop street, had been entered some time Saturday night. So far no report of what was stolen has been made because the owner, Mike Kovach, is in Elyria and a neighbor was watching the home.

REPORT GIRL MISSING

Police received a report July 19 stating that Miss Elizabeth Ratchford, 19, five feet five inches tall, weighing 130 pounds, has dark hair and wears glasses, is missing from her home.

STOCK MARKET MOVES HIGHER

Gains Generally Fractional; Trading Is Quiet In Morning

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, July 19.—The stock market moved irregularly higher today in quiet trading. Gains were generally fractional, except in isolated strong spots.

Sales ran below a million shares for the first time since July 8. Friday, 1,040,750 shares changed hands.

Oils led the upside issues and had gains ranging to 3/4. Pure Oil had the widest gain, although Standard Oil of N. J. Standard Oil of Calif., Sinclair Oil, Barnsdale Oil, were also well supported, and were higher by major fractions.

Also steady were the coppers, foods, mail orders, and rail equipment. American Telephone hit a new 1943 high with a small advance while Westinghouse, International Harvester and Dome Mining had gains of a point or more. Pepsi-Cola was also higher but its advance was more modest.

Aviation, steel, rails and utilities were mixed with fractional gains and losses prevailing. Deere & Co. off a point, was a weak spot, while U. S. Steel was off a minor fraction after a higher opening.

Also lower were such leaders as United Aircraft, Republic Steel, Great Northern Pfd., and Liggett & Myers B.

The bond market was quiet and fractionally higher than Saturday's close.

Tells How To Improve OPA

Maxon Gives Steps Needed To Improve Price Administration In Nation

TOO MANY LAWYERS; AND THEORISTS

(International News Service)
DETROIT, July 19.—Before leaving on a vacation to recover from a "feeling of utter frustration," Louis R. Maxon, Detroit advertising executive, laid down seven suggestions for improvement of the Office of Price Administration.

Maxon resigned from the OPA early last week, after delivering the most vicious assault the OPA has faced to date.

"I've probably talked too much already," Maxon said. "But I still say the day the OPA rids itself of the theorists and lawyers that's the day the office will be improved."

Convinced that the OPA is a vital bureau, despite its many faults, Maxon declared that lack of co-operation between other government agencies was undermining its work.

Rules For Improvement

Maxon laid down these basic rules for improvement.

1—Eliminate the theorists and replace them with businessmen who know the problem. ("For instance, the laundry section of the OPA is headed by nine professors, but not one laundress.")

2—Eliminate a large share of the lawyers. ("Lawyers are advisory people by training and not administrators.")

3—Eliminate lawyers from the enforcement divisions. ("These positions should be filled by the police chief type of person. Lawyers get themselves involved with procedure and forget results.")

4—Better cooperation with other government agencies. ("I know with the correct attitude and cooperation the so-called farm bloc and the OPA could get along and arrive at a solution of their problems.")

5—Give more authority to the local OPA offices and rationing boards. ("The whole strength of the OPA lies with the local ration boards. They are in contact with the people of their districts.")

6—More consultations with business.

ness. ("I don't mean with big business, but with the little fellows. The laundries, retailers and the small manufacturers who are affected by the regulations.")

7—A price policy covering only the basic cost of living items. ("Right now, the OPA fixes prices on more than 2,000 items. Even canned mussels and fruit cake and artichoke hearts are covered. I don't think it makes a bit of difference what the price of these items is. The man in the street is interested in the items he buys every day. The rest is waste motion.")

Approximately 40,000 grocers throughout the country have gone out of business, Maxon declared. "They say in Washington these are war casualties. I don't think so. They are casualties of bad planning, and that's the stuff I don't like."

U. S. Will Promote Mexican Industry, Economic Program

Far-Reaching Agreement Between Governments Goes Into Effect 'Without Delay'

(International News Service)
WASHINGTON, July 19.—The United States government has agreed to help promote the industrialization and general economic development of Mexico under a far-reaching agreement announced by the state department Saturday.

Designed to create a new era of economic unity between the two countries, the agreement is the outgrowth of the understanding reached between President Roosevelt and President Avila Camacho of Mexico in their historic meeting at Monterey and Corpus Christi last April.

It is based on a series of recommendations made by the Mexican-American commission for economic cooperation. The American and Mexican governments have agreed to put the recommendation into effect "without delay."

In return for American aid in helping to develop the industries and agriculture of Mexico, the Mexican government has agreed to continue providing the United States with strategic raw materials during the war.

Mexico also agrees to concentrate her industrialization program largely in those fields of endeavor which will serve in peace, as well as war, such as the electrical, steel, rubber, cement, chemical, textile, sugar, alcohol and pulp and paper industries.

The United States has undertaken to make available to Mexico the necessary supplies and equipment for the development of strategic raw materials during the war, and for the mechanization of Mexican agriculture to permit a rapid increase in the country's production of basic food crops.

Swimmers Back In Trim At Y Camp

Following a two day hull, swimming at Camp Renz was resumed on Friday and all of the boys participated in a swimming and bathing session in the river. All were glad to get in the swimming hole and after spending 45 minutes in the water were ready for the delicious dinner which was prepared by Mrs. Saul. Fish was on the menu. Mashed and volleyball were on the program. The Thunderbolts are now leading the mushball league while the Spiffies are the leaders of the volleyball.

Early evening was spent in playing of "Capture the Flag" with the sides being so even that neither side was able to get the other's flag. As a late evening activity the boys all surrounded the huge campfire, which was built by Ed Jackson and Bob Preston. Singing could be heard all over the countryside and later the camp enjoyed the story which was spun by the camp director. Winner of the day's inspection was the Tully Cabin with a 100 per cent cabin.

CAP Women Pilots Make Up Valuable Aerial Homeguard

Feminine Fliers Perform Duties Of Observers, Couriers, Rescuers

By JANE COCHRAN (I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK, July 19.—A woman flying as observer in a plane over the lonely wastes of Arizona spotted a lost B-24 bomber; another woman, taking off in a blinding snowstorm, located a helpless barge in the storm tossed waves of Lake Erie.

These are the achievements of the women of the Civil Air Patrol, the world's largest aerial homeguard, where women fly with men to speed the war effort.

Mrs. W. Carl Rufus, flying grandmother from Ann Arbor, Mich., flies in the local CAP courier service transporting men and materials on wartime missions. Other women, flying their own planes at their own expense, help speed the war effort by transporting vital parts to war plants in the CAP's courier service.

This job by both men and women has saved many work days when assembly lines stopped for want of a vital part. They've flown in the part, either landing in the vicinity of dropping it by parachute.

Approximately 10 per cent of the CAP's large membership is women, but by no means all of them are pilots. Many man first aid stations, operate canteens for CAP filers and crews, do stenographic work, and work in coastal patrol stations—all as volunteers.

Movie Actress Mary Astor served a tour of duty as plotting board operator in a vital coastal patrol center in the gulf coast. Women are not permitted to fly in the CAP coastal patrol, which has spotted and also sunk submarines, but they serve in the base. They work in the operations and radio room, charting the constantly changing positions of the patrol planes.

YARN SUPPLY ASSURED

WASHINGTON, July 19.—The War Production Board today issued a directive to assure an adequate supply of yarn for winter underwear. Yarn producers were ordered to set aside specific percentages of yarn for knit underwear and to allocate it to manufacturers during a nine-week period beginning Aug. 1.
